Pollsters predict BJP's Haryana exit

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

POLLSTERS on Saturday predicted the exit of BJP in Haryana, giving the Congress a clear majority. They also saw a Congress edge in J&K as it has a pre-poll alliance with the National Conference.

The exit poll results came in shortly after polling concluding in Haryana, where the voter turnout was over 61%. The counting of votes in both states is scheduled for Tuesday, October 8.

In Haryana, the contest was particularly intense, with the ruling BJP facing severe anti-incumbency, having stayed in power for two consecutive terms. The AAP did not appear to have an impact in the state.

Bouyed by the exit poll outcome, former Haryana chief minister Bhupinder Singh Hooda said the decision on chief minister's face will be taken by the party's high command after factoring in the opinions of the party's lawmakers.

Peoples' Pulse gave the Congress an average of 55 seats in Haryana while the BJP was trailing at 26. The Jannayak Janta Party (JJP), which was in alliance with the BJP till a few weeks ago, was heading for a washout, as was the Indian National Lok Dal. All exit polls placed the Congress far ahead of the BJP.

In J&K, the C-Voter-India Today survey put the National Conference-Congress alliance at 40-48 seats and the BJP at 27-32 in the 90-member assembly. Awami Ittehad Party chief Sheikh Abdul Rashid was courted by Congress leader Charanjit Singh Channi, who called on him at his residence. It led to speculation about the Congress seeking his support for a coalition government.

Online booking mandatory for visiting Sabarimala this season

M S VIDYANANDAN @ T'Puram

ALL pilgrims visiting the Sabarimala Lord Ayyappa temple, including those travelling on the forest routes, will have to make prior online booking during the upcoming Mandalam-Makaravilakku season. Also, the daily number of pilgrims visiting the shrine will be limited to 80,000.

The Travancore Devaswom Board's (TDB) proposal to make Virtual Queue booking mandatory for all pilgrims was approved by the high-level committee chaired by Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan on Saturday.

"Virtual Queue booking is mandatory and those coming without prior booking will not be allowed to trek the main Pampa-Sannidhanam route, and also the forest routes from Sathram and Azhutha-Kalaketti. Drinking water and kanji (gruel) supply will be arranged on the forest routes," TDB president P S Prasanth told this newspaper. There will be no spot booking facility for pilgrims on any route this year.

Prasanth said the pilgrims will have the freedom to change their route. "Our concern is the daily intake of pilgrims. They are free to change routes," he said.

Australian pacer Schutt shines light on queer side of cricket

KALYANI MANGALE @ Dubai

IN the last few years, social media has proved to be a tool for women's cricket. Not just for fan engagement, but to tell stories of athletes.

However, there is a gloomy side that affects the fans and athletes alike, especially the queer athletes. Australia pacer Megan Schutt is one of those players. The 31-year-old has been a proud openly queer player for years now and had to deal with inappropriate comments about her sexuality online. She has never shied away from voicing her opinions, however these days, she has decided to pick and choose who to reply to. "Firstly, I don't call them all out," Schutt said. "The ones that I feel are just trying to poke the bear. I don't engage with them. They're just using a derogatory comment because they can. Sometimes it can be in an uneducated way and that's when I'll probably react because I feel like if we can have a civil conversation and change someone's mindset."

Schutt is not the only queer athlete at the ongoing T20 World Cup in UAE. England's Natalie Sciver-Brunt and Danielle Wyatt-Hodge, New Zealand's Lea Tahuhu, and Scotland's Abbi Aitken-Drummond are some of the openly gay players in this edition of the World Cup. P15

Inter-city, rapid trains for K'taka soon, says Vaishnaw

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

RAPID trains, designed to revolutionise city-to-city travel, will soon arrive in Karnataka, announced Railway Minister Ashwini Vaishnaw, while inspecting the Bengaluru Cantonment station's redevelopment work on Saturday.

He emphasised that Karnataka's cities, such as Bengaluru and Mysuru, with distances ideal for rapid rail (less than 200 km), will greatly benefit from this new service.

The first two rapid trains have already been manufactured - from Delhi to Meerut and from Ahmedabad to Bhuj, and after a year of successful testing, large-scale production will begin, Vaishnaw said and mentioned, "Bengaluru is a magnet city, attracting people from neighbouring areas like Tumakuru and Mysuru and rapid trains will connect these cities at high frequency, transforming travel."

The Union Minister also revealed plans to collaborate with Bengaluru Airport Authority to extend the railway line closer to the airport terminals. "We are working with the airport authority to take the railway station as close to departure and arrival terminals as possible," he said. The plan includes doubling the railway line from Bengaluru station to Yelahanka to accommodate more passengers.

Railway Minister Ashwini Vaishnaw looks at the scale model of the proposed redevelopment work of Cantonmemt Railway Station on Saturday | VINOD KUMAR T

Regarding the Bengaluru Cantonment redevelopment, Minister Vaishnaw said that the station will feature a G+2 structure with 18,000 square metres of new space. "Parking for 250 cars and 250 two-wheelers will be underground, ensuring convenience for commuters," he added. He compared the developments to the earlier redevelopment of Sir M Visvesvaraya Terminal at Baiyappanahalli. In addition, the minister reviewed the progress of Bengaluru's circular rail project, which is expected to transform the city's transport network.

The Terminal Project Report (TPR) is on track to be completed by December, after which further steps will be taken. Vaishnaw also inspected the ongoing construction of the third and fourth lines from Bengaluru to Whitefield, noting that it is progressing well.

Highlighting the success of Vande Bharat trains, Vaishnaw shared that routes like Bengaluru to Chennai, Madurai, and Hyderabad have recorded over 100% occupancy. "The Bengaluru-Chennai route is seeing 120% occupancy, showing that people are embracing this service," he said.

BBMP to begin survey on street vendors soon

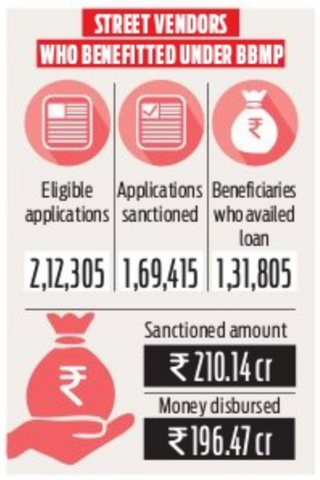
EXPRESS NEW SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) initiated a comprehensive survey of street hawkers in all eight zones under its jurisdiction. Special Commissioner for BBMP Welfare Department, Suralkar Vikas Kishore stated that the welfare department is committed to complete it at the earliest.

According to the BBMP, over 600 enumerators have been deployed to carry out the survey. "So far around 1,800 street vendors have been identified through the survey. Based on the survey, eligible street vendors will be issued identity cards and certificates," said Kishore.

The survey is being conducted in accordance with the Street Vendors (Livelihood Protection and Regulation of Street Trading) Act-2014 and the Karnataka Street Vendors (Livelihood Protection, Regulation and Licensing of Street Trading) Scheme-2020. During the survey, vendors should carry various documents, including photocopies of their Aadhaar Card, Voter ID card, Bank passbook, Family Ration Card, information about family members and a Self Declaration Certificate.

Apart from the PM's fund, the welfare department of the corporation provides a subsidy for the purchase of e-sales vehicles, subsidy for the Onti Mane/Amrita Mahotsav Mane scheme, reimbursement of medical expenses for those suffering from serious diseases, skill training programme, reimbursement of fees for the education of children of street vendors among others. The Prime Minister's Atma Nirbhar Nidhi (PM Swanidhi) scheme for street vendors by the Ministry of Housing and Urban Affairs, Government of India, Deen Dayal Antyodaya Yojana - National Urban Livelihoods Campaign (DAY-NULM) will provide short loans to help the street vendors, said an official.



Man suffered from chronic liver issue

THEIR timely action also saved a potential diversion of the flight to Bhubaneswar airport and a disruption of weekend travel plans of 200-plus passengers.

The Flight No 6E 503 took off from Terminal 1 of Kempegowda International Airport at 10.42 am, which was late by 20 minutes. It was an hour later that the flyer, who is from West Bengal and works as a labourer in Kerala, developed breathlessness and threw up. He was travelling with his son to get himself admitted to a government hospital in Kolkata for his chronic liver condition.

Harilakshmi Ratan, a retired chartered accountant seated on 1B, told TNSE, "A flyer seated in the middle (Row no. 16) started vomiting blood. One of the cabin staff made an announcement appealing for doctors on board to assist the patient. Three of them stepped forward and saved his life."

Dr Parvin, who works at a private hospital in Siliguri, said they rushed to the patient. "He was struggling to breathe and was vomiting blood. His BP was low. We gave him oxygen from the cylinder and also administered drips with normal saline, all of which were available on the flight. The vomiting was brought under control immediately. Soon, the oximeter too showed a stable oxygen level (95)," Dr Parvin said.

Dr Samim, who is the recipient of Best Outgoing Resident in Doctor in Medicine (DM) (Neurology) and who also works at a private hospital in Siliguri, said, "Since the patient was not in a good financial position, I decided it would be better if he reaches his hometown. We had stabilised him too."

BTP BOOKS 108 SCHOOL BUS DRIVERS FOR DRUNK DRIVING

Says despite enforcement drives, schools not checking drivers' condition before work

RISHITA KHANNA @ Bengaluru

IN slightly over nine months, the Bengaluru Traffic Police (BTP) registered 108 cases of drunk driving by school bus drivers and about 679 cases of school buses carrying excess children.

Speaking to TNIE, BTP officers mentioned that despite continuous enforcement drives, schools are not checking the condition of drivers before they start work, putting children's lives at serious risk. So far, the traffic police imposed fines to the tune of Rs 1,36,000 in drunk driving cases involving school vehicles.

Deputy Commissioner of Police Traffic (East division) Kuldeep Kumar Jain said, "No drive, so far, has ever revealed a case where all drivers were sober, in every inspection; 15-20 drivers test positive for alcohol." He added that when schools are questioned, their managements claim that the drivers drank the night before, but breathalyser tests reveal alcohol levels 4-5 times over the limit, he added.

After the recent drive, which led the traffic police to book cases against 21 drivers, the BTP had told the RTO to cancel the permits of these vehicles.

In the past, the RTO only suspended drivers' licences, but the latter continued to violate regulations. "Now, we have requested the RTO to take more decisive action by cancelling the permits for these vehicles. However, if violations continue, the traffic police will work with the RTO to seize buses altogether," the DCP told TNIE.

The department is also planning to write to the education department to make it mandatory to have alcohol metres and extra drivers available in schools to ensure stricter safety measures," the officer mentioned.

Another senior officer said that when such incidents come up, which jeopardise children's safety, parents must demand accountability from schools and question them from all angles. "If schools can demand extra fees for bus services, they should also be required to ensure drivers are tested before every pick-up and drop-off," the officer said, adding that parents deserve assurance that their children are in safe hands.

The officer emphasised that the education department should issue a notice stating that whenever such incidents are reported, schools must provide monetary compensation for the safety they compromise. This measure would compel schools to act more responsibly in ensuring student wellbeing.

BBMP panel probing playground gate collapse implicates officials

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE special committee probing the gate collapse at a playground in Malleswaram, which claimed the life of a 10-year-old boy, has highlighted seven points that caused the accident. A lack of maintenance, failure to act even after public complaints regarding rusting of clamps, and negligence on the part of officials, among others, have been mentioned in the report.

It is learnt that the agency, which was supposed to maintain the playground, and the officials who are responsible for periodical inspection have neglected in their duties.

The committee comprising the engineer from the Technical Vigilance Committee under the Commissioner, and engineers from the quality assurance cell, have pointed out elements like failure of welding the heavy iron gate weighing 216 kg, a lack of heavy bearing clamps to hold the gate, completely corroded clamps due to rains, and a lack of maintenance and failure of responding to complaints by ward engineers. The committee has stated that a gate of such weight was not needed for the playground.

"The BBMP chief commissioner has directed to make the report even stronger. We will take two more days and give another report. We have found that the gate was damaged and vehicles were allowed inside Rajashankar Park, and events and cricket matches were conducted without Palike permission. The damaged gate was rewelded and the person who did the rework has done poor quality work that has led to the incident," said an official, adding that it was the responsibility of the BBMP project department to fix gates at the playground.

The BBMP had already suspended Assistant Engineer Srinivas Raju following the incident. It was also preparing to suspend Assistant Executive Engineers, K Shanthala, Devaraju and Bibi Ayesha Hussain, and served show cause notices to Executive Engineer L Venkatesh. Once the final report is out, more heads are likely to roll, hinted the official.

SHOPKEEPER, 4 OTHERS, BOOKED FOR ATTEMPT TO MURDER

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

A SHOPKEEPER and four others have been arrested for allegedly attempting to murder another man, in the course of a quarrel over a monetary dispute. The accused has been identified as Illiyas alias Illu, a shopkeeper, and four others, who have been booked for allegedly attacking one Mohammed Khurram with lethal weapons. The attack ensued over Khurram's support for rowdy sheeter, Sirajuddin alias Buldu, with whom Illiyas has the monetary dispute.

Between 9.30 pm and 9.40 pm on September 20, Sirajuddin landed at Illiyas' shop at Gurappanapalya and allegedly threatened him at gunpoint. When other shopkeepers began gathering around in support of Illiyas, Sirajuddin fired in the air with the revolver, in a bid to ward them off. He then tried to flee on a bike, with his friend Khurram riding pillion.

Illiyas and four others, however, managed to get hold of Khurram, who then tried to run away, but was chased by the accused, who allegedly attacked him with weapons, in response to Khurram supporting Sirajuddin.

Khurram somehow managed to escape from the accused and get home, from where he called the police. He was immediately rushed to hospital, where he is recovering.

The police have arrested Illiyas and the four others for attempt to murder, while they have also booked Sirajuddin under the Arms Act, along with a Section of the BNS, for brandishing an unlicensed revolver, which has since been recovered. The Suddaguntepalya police are investigating the case.

HC refuses bail to accused from UP who cheated 15 people across India

BENGALURU: The Karnataka High Court refused anticipatory bail to Anupkumar Chodhari, an accused from Uttar Pradesh who had allegedly cheated 15 persons from different states after receiving lakhs of rupees from them on the pretext of getting them inducted as members of the Railway Board. Justice S Vishwajith Shetty said, "I am of the opinion that he (Chodhari) is not entitled for the relief prayed in this petition. Under these circumstances, though in law the present petition filed under Section 438 of CrPC is maintainable, I am of the view that on the merits of the case considering the criminal history of the petitioner, his prayer made in this petition is liable to be rejected." Chodhari approached the high court in connection with the complaint filed by S Muniyappa at the Vidhana Soudha police station. The public prosecutor submitted that the petitioner is a history-sheeter with 15 similar cases registered against him in various states. The petitioner is now in custody for a crime registered by the Kanti police in Ayodhya district of Uttar Pradesh. The trial court had issued a body warrant against him in this case, while such warrants have been issued by different courts across the country for similar offences. The custodial interrogation is necessary. He cannot claim parity on the ground that the accused number 2, who is a woman, has been released on bail, he argued.

IF FORCED TO QUIT, SIDDU MAY WANT HIS MAN AS CM

Move to stop Deputy Chief Minister Shivakumar's juggernaut; PWD Minister Satish Jarkiholi now frontrunner

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru/Belagavi

THOUGH Chief Minister Siddaramaiah has clarified that he will never be cowed down by BJP in the MUDA imbroglio, he is expected to propose one of his close confidants in the cabinet as his replacement for the top post if such a situation arises. Siddaramaiah would like to have his proxy as the next CM to stop DyCM DK Shivakumar on his tracks, sources said.

AICC president Mallikarjun Kharge recently issued a loaded statement, saying Siddaramaiah may remain CM or not, but the party will move on. It is in this backdrop that Home Minister Dr G Parameshwara, Social Welfare Minister Dr HC Mahadevappa and PWD Minister Satish Jarkiholi held a meeting among themselves and also with Siddaramaiah. They wanted an SC or ST leader among the AHINDA group to be CM. Satish carried this message to Delhi and offered the post to Kharge, who declined, sources told The New Sunday Express.

But, political analysts pointed out, Siddaramaiah has the backing of AICC General Secretary (organisation) KC Venugopal and is unlikely to step down. If such a situation arises, he will have his say as the Congress high command too wants a smooth transition of power. "Under those circumstances, Satish, who has rallied behind Siddaramaiah for decades, could emerge a frontrunner," a Congress leader said.

The coterie of ministers around Siddaramaiah, especially Dalits, have also realised that unless they stake a claim for the top post now, they may miss the bus. That was the reason they held the meeting, with the consent of the CM, the Congress leader added. Top Congress sources said Satish, who is said to have been sent by Siddaramaiah to meet Kharge in New Delhi two days ago, has apparently conveyed that he has the support of 68 MLAs and deserves to be CM if Siddaramaiah quits.

Coming out of the meeting with Kharge, Satish said they discussed politics, but did not disclose the details. Given Satish's popularity and support of legislators and backward communities in the state, the party leadership feels Satish could stop the political juggernaut of Shivakumar, who is also a strong contender for the top post, sources said. It will be clear within a week if Siddaramaiah will continue as CM or make way for Satish or Shivakumar to take on the top seat, they said. Though the high command could be inclined towards Satish, it would like to see how the political crisis unfolds in the state once ED starts tightening its noose around Siddaramaiah in the MUDA case, the sources said.

No talk on change in CM: DKS

Deputy CM and Karnataka Pradesh Congress Committee (KPCC) president DK Shivakumar said on Saturday that PWD Minister Satish Jarkiholi's meeting with AICC president Mallikarjun Kharge should not be misinterpreted. "Who else should our leaders meet other than our party president? Our leaders have a relationship with our president just like we have a relationship with the media. Every time I visit Delhi, I meet our president. I am in touch with him every day and giving reports of the party's developments," Shivakumar said, adding that the issue of change of guard was not discussed. On AICC General Secretary KC Venugopal visiting the state on October 15, Shivakumar said he was not aware of it. "I don't need to go to Delhi at the moment," he added.

Change of guard is a mere speculation: CM

RAMAKRISHNA BADSESHI @ Raichur

CHIEF Minister Siddaramaiah on Saturday reiterated that he would not step down as the CM over the MUDA imbroglio as he has not committed any wrongdoing.

Speaking to reporters at Manvi in Raichur district, Siddaramaiah said that the topic of the change of guard in the state is mere speculation. "Only the BJP leaders are demanding my resignation. If any of my cabinet colleagues or senior Congress leaders from Karnataka meet AICC chief Mallikarjun Kharge or Rahul Gandhi in Delhi, speculation of my removal starts... rumours of me stepping down also start when senior ministers meet," the CM said. Siddaramaiah said that he would not resign based on the false accusations of the BJP.

Siddaramaiah reiterated that he has the backing of the party high command and his cabinet. "When I have not done anything illegal, why should I resign? Even JDS leader HD Kumaraswamy has said that he would not demand my resignation... even former minister GT Devegowda has come out in support of me. It is only the BJP that wants me to resign," he thundered. On Leader of Opposition in the Assembly R Ashoka saying that he will resign over the allegations against him over a BDA land if the CM resigns, Siddaramaiah challenged the BJP leader to quit.

Later, addressing a Swabhimana Samavesha at Manvi, the CM said that he was fed up with the attitude of BJP leaders who are always seeking his resignation. "But I will continue my fight for you all (people). Mahatma Gandhi has said that 'Inner voice is greater than everything'. My conscience is clear," he added.

It's Cong vs Cong: Probe into BUDA case over

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Ballari

EVEN as the dust around alleged irregularities in the Mysuru Urban Development Authority (MUDA) is yet to settle, another urban development authority is in a tight spot. This time, it is the Bellary Urban Development Authority (BUDA).

The State Government has formed a team to investigate the matter. According to sources, the investigation is complete, and the report is expected to be submitted to the government soon. In the BUDA case, the allegations are against BUDA Chairman JS Anjaneyalu, who is a Congress leader and is said to be close to Deputy Chief Minister DK Shivakumar.

Ballari City MLA Nara Bharath Reddy and Kampli MLA JN Ganesh, both from Congress, have written to the government, alleging irregularities in BUDA. Following the letters, the government had formed a probe team, which completed the investigation on Saturday. BUDA passed resolutions to form layouts in March and July.

The two Congress MLAs alleged that the beneficiaries selected were close to the chairman, including a few of his relatives. But Anjaneyalu rubbished the allegations, saying all rules were followed while sanctioning sites. He told TNSE, "My own party MLAs have complained against me. They are my seniors, and I don't want to comment on anybody. But there is no scam in BUDA. I am confident that the committee formed to investigate the matter will give me a clean chit."

REFER MUDA CASE TO CBI, BJP TELLS CM

Bengaluru: BJP MLC N Ravi Kumar demanded a CBI probe into the alleged irregularities in site allotment by the Mysuru Urban Development Authority (MUDA). Speaking to reporters in Bengaluru, the BJP leader said that CM Siddaramaiah must refer the case to the Central agency. On senior JDS leader and former minister GT Devegowda backing Siddaramaiah in the MUDA case, Kumar said that he may have done it out of fear of losing his sites. During the inauguration of Dasara celebrations, the JDS leader openly supported the CM by stating that there is no need for him to resign. The BJP leader also hit out at noted writer Hampa Nagarajaiah for talking politics and praising Siddaramaiah during the recent Dasara inauguration in Mysuru.

CM & MUDA case: Jettisoning the fuel for a safe landing?

THE Enforcement Directorate's entry into the Mysuru Urban Development Authority (MUDA) sites allotment case against Chief Minister Siddaramaiah seems to have brought an element of unpredictability and apprehension in the Congress camp.

In an apparent bid to mitigate further risks - and akin to jettisoning the fuel to enable a safe landing - Siddaramaiah's wife Parvathy BM returned the 14 sites in Mysuru to MUDA, which are at the centre of the controversy. It was done within hours after the Enforcement Case Information Report (ECIR) was registered by the central agency. The urban development authority completed the formalities of taking back the sites with lightning speed, which surprised many. It is unclear how the MUDA could act with such urgency when the case is still being investigated at the direction of a special court.

But the big question is, will returning the sites help the CM to wriggle out of the imbroglio that took a near irreparable dent in his image and threatened the stability of the Congress government in the state?

In 2016, during his first tenure as CM, Siddaramaiah had come under fire from the opposition over a Hublot watch, reportedly worth Rs 75 lakh, gifted by his friend. He managed to extricate himself from that controversy by handing it to the Assembly Speaker to declare it as a state asset. But, unlike the Hublot controversy that was defused at an early stage, the MUDA case has moved quite far. The High Court and special courts have passed scathing remarks. The Lokayukta police and the ED have already started the probe. While Lokayukta police have to submit the report to the court within three months, an alleged money laundering case has been registered by the ED.

It is too early to say how the returning of the sites will help the CM in the ED case. The legal implications of it will be known only when the matter reaches either a division bench of the High Court or the Supreme Court. It can be interpreted either way. One argument could be that there is no substantial loss to the government as the property is already surrendered.

However, former Advocate General of Karnataka Ashok Haranahalli opines that returning sites at this stage will not impact the ongoing investigation. It could have had some value if the sites were returned in the initial stages itself, he says. Even many in Congress feel the sites should have been returned before Governor Thaawarchand Gehlot accorded permission to prosecute the CM.

Politically speaking, it is a good decision. It is seen as an effort to undo the damage caused after Siddaramaiah claimed Rs 62 crore compensation for returning the sites. Perhaps, that was the most ill-advised step. The CM's remarks had shocked many, including those in Congress.

Though late in the day, returning the sites did send a positive message to the Congress leaders, especially Siddaramaiah's team, which was at the receiving end of the legal, political, and perception battles. The move could help them disarm his detractors within the party as it is more difficult to defend his position while holding onto the sites.

On the flip side, it gave the Opposition a handle to hit out at the CM by terming it as an admission of guilt. Their argument: When there was no wrongdoing, why return the sites? To drive home its point, the BJP used Siddaramaiah's 2011 remarks that by returning the site, then CM BS Yediyurappa had accepted his mistake.

However, Siddaramaiah's wife's justification for returning the sites to steer clear of controversy has failed to cut ice with the opposition parties.

Both sides continue to dig in the dirt and hurl allegations against each other almost daily. It has gone to the extent that ordinary people loathe politics, which they think is more about politicians trying to belittle each other rather than working for people's well-being.

In that context, Siddaramaiah's recent remarks, quoting Mahatma Gandhi, that conscience is the ultimate court is noteworthy. Alas, issues get into the courts' domain when politicians are accused of crossing moral and legal boundaries.

Now, as the CM tries to disentangle himself from the political and legal knot that the MUDA case has landed him in, he seems to be making course corrections to reduce risks.

Considering how the ED cases against then Delhi CM Aravind Kejriwal and Jharkhand CM Hemant Soren panned out, the Congress camp will be apprehensive about the developments.

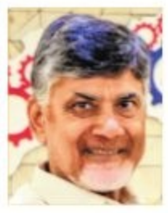
Feedback from devotees to be taken while implementing new guidelines: Andhra CM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Vijayawada

ASSERTING that there is no question of compromising on the quality of the prasadam of Lord Venkateswara in Tirumala, Chief Minister N Chandrababu Naidu, on Saturday said that the State Government has already started operation cleansing in the Tirumala Tirupati Devasthanams (TTD).

Interacting with media persons after inaugurating the Vakula Matha Vantasala (kitchen) in Tirumala built at the cost of Rs 13.4 crore the Chief Minister said feedback from the devotees will be taken into consideration while implementing certain new guidelines after the cleansing operation.



His statements attain significance in the wake of the controversy surrounding the alleged use of substandard and adulterated ghee in making the famous Tirumala Laddu. Hearing a batch of petitions filed on the issue, the Supreme Court had formed SIT to probe the matter.

Pointing out the complaints from the devotees in the past over the quality of Laddu and Anna Prasadam served in Tirumala, Naidu maintained that now is not the case and devotees are totally satisfied with improved quality. "TTD will continue to maintain the highest quality in Prasdams and food served to devotees. There is no compromise on those issues," he said.

Stating that with the modern kitchens of the Vengamamba, the Akshaya and the Vakula Matha Anna Prasadam can be supplied to three lakh devotees, the Chief Minister said, "There is no question of compromising on the quality of Psadamas and all necessary steps will be taken right from the raw material till the Prasadam comes out of the kitchen."

Manjeshwar bribery case: Kerala BJP president acquitted

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Kasaragod

THE Kasaragod Principal Sessions Court has acquitted BJP state president K Surendran and five others in connection with the Manjeshwar election bribery case. The case was dismissed before the trial started as the court on Saturday found insufficient evidence to proceed with.

The case was that K Surendran bribed K Sundara, the Bahujan Samaj Party (BSP) candidate whose name resembled that of the BJP candidate, to withdraw his nomination from the Manjeshwar constituency in the 2021 assembly elections. It was also alleged that Surendran promised to give Rs 2.5 lakh and a mobile phone to Sundara to withdraw nomination papers.

Reacting to the verdict, Surendran said that he had said in the beginning itself that it was a false case. "The case was filed by LDF candidate V V Ramesan, not by Sundara. Later, he was made a part of the case. Leaders of CP(I)M, Congress, and the Muslim League are involved in the conspiracy of this case. The SC and ST atrocities Act was invoked in the case without any reason, but the court understood this," he said.

The other accused included former BJP district president K Balakrishna Shetty, former Yuva Morcha state treasurer Sunil Naik, and party leaders K Manikanda Rai, Y Suresh, and Lokesh Noda. On March 22, 2021, Sundara withdrew his nomination papers, giving Surendran an advantage. However, Surendran ultimately lost the elections.

K Shreekanth, who appeared for Surendran, said, "The court has seen that prima facie it will not stand and the discharge petition was granted. The court has upheld the argument of the defendants that the complaint, investigation, and the final report will not stand."

CREDIT GAP: POOR LENDING HAUNTS SMALLER BORROWERS

THE THIRD EYE

SHANKKAR AIYAR
Author of The Gated Republic, Aadhaar: A Biometric History of India's 12 Digit Revolution, and Accidental India
(shankkar.aiyar@gmail.com)

THIS week, the Reserve Bank's reconstituted Monetary Policy Committee will review the cost of money and the state of the economy. On the face of it, to borrow a phrase from ornithology, the conditions signal a dovish policy—inflation is down, the US Federal Reserve has cut rates and GDP growth was slower at 6.7 percent as against the RBI's forecast of 7.1 percent. Ergo, the debate is centred on the cost of money and pace of growth.

The cost of money is critical, but what matters for sustaining growth momentum is wider access to credit. As Adam Smith observed in his seminal book, An Inquiry into the Nature and Causes of the Wealth of Nations, "Money says the proverb makes money. When you have got a little, it is often easy to get more. The great difficulty is to get that little." India's economy is haunted by the cost imposed by the credit gap and poor lending to smaller and poorer borrowers.

The landscape is littered with a litany of lament. Take the case of micro, small and medium enterprises or MSMEs. India is home to an estimated 60 million MSMEs—over 29.7 million of them are registered on the Udyam portal. MSMEs account for 30 percent of the GDP, 45 percent of the manufacturing output, 48 percent of exports, and they employ around 110 million people. Despite a plethora of schemes—for one, the Emergency Credit Line Guarantee scheme was a big saviour post pandemic—their access to credit remains poor.

A CRISIL report from February 2024 revealed that formal credit penetration in the sector is at a mere 20 percent. The parliamentary standing committee on finance in 2022 found formal credit touched only 39 percent of the MSMEs. How does this translate in credit delivery? The committee cited the UK Sinha expert group report to point out: "Total addressable demand for credit is estimated at ₹37 lakh crore, whereas overall supply is ₹14.5 lakh crore." In effect, leaving a credit gap of ₹20-25 lakh crore. Lack of funding stunts MSMEs and impedes technology upgrade.

The status of credit to agriculture is stranded in complications of legislation, regulation and distribution. Thanks to the expansion of Kisan Credit Cards, there is some improvement. In absolute terms, bank lending for agriculture has gone up from ₹6.04 lakh crore in 2014-15 to ₹24.8 lakh crore in 2023-24. That said, a Nabard study in 2023 revealed that while 58 percent of farmers were aware of credit schemes—KCCs being the most popular—only 28 percent availed of credit. The hurdles in accessing credit ranged from complex procedure, distance to banks and documentation. So, credit continues to elude the small and marginal farmer. And it gets worse for the tenant farmer who is "hardly included in the institutional credit system", says the study.

Agriculture accounts for nearly 16 percent of the GDP and 46 percent of the workforce. According to the Agriculture Census of 2015-16, 68 percent of farm landholding in India measured up to one hectare. The National Sample Survey stated in a 2019 report that the average monthly income of farmers was ₹10,218 and the average household debt ₹74,121. While the PM Kisan Samman Nidhi has helped, the distress in the sector is visible in rural consumption data and is reflected in the quest for job quotas and recent election results. The twin objectives of improving the income of farmers and reducing the proportion of workforce on farms call for expansion of credit.

Unlike the past, it's not the lack of financial inclusion that's hindering credit delivery. Aadhaar has propelled financial inclusion through the Jan Dhan Yojana. In the decade since the programme was launched by Prime Minister Narendra Modi in August 2014, India has linked 531 million persons to bank accounts, of which two-thirds are in rural and semi-urban areas. The RBI's FI-Index, that captures the extent of financial inclusion across the country, rose to 64.2 in March 2024 from 60.1 a year ago.

India's digital public infrastructure affords the opportunity to use technology. The potential is manifest in digital payments—UPI registered 15 billion transactions in September. The Open Credit Enablement Network, a tech framework for lenders and account aggregators, was launched in 2020. Riding the wave is the launch of Unified Lending Interface—call it the UPI of lending—in August this year by RBI Governor Shaktikanta Das. The ULI promises population-scale resolution, and allows leveraging of cash flow or data on transactions to deliver credit. Much would depend on how rapidly the ULI is deployed.

The credit gap is perpetuated by gaps in policy and is aggravated by the patriarchy of profitability. The unwillingness to lend to MSMEs and farmers stems from systemic apathy. Credit assessment is influenced by economics. The viability of farming, for instance, depends on access to inputs and markets, enabling collectives for scale and price realisation. The farmer—as onion growers in Lasalgaon and rice farmers in Madhya Pradesh and Haryana will testify—is vulnerable to price controls and export bans. The small entrepreneur needs systemic support to upgrade tech and scale, and protection from defaults by the big buyer.

Success calls for structural reforms. India's small businesses and farmers are the force multipliers of growth. Bridging the credit gap is critical for sustaining growth and prosperity. Delivering fuel to all the cylinders is essential for velocity and momentum.

BJP HUNTS FOR AN ASSERTIVE NEW CHIEF

POWER & POLITICS

PRABHU CHAWLA

NATURE abhors a vacuum and vacuum abhors a limbo. After the BJP didn't come anywhere near the 400 mark or get a majority in May 2024, the job of the party president is in limbo. Though his term expired in June, J P Nadda continues in the catbird seat since the leadership is unable to agree on his replacement. Nadda is not just the interim party boss but is also a Union minister. Now that the TINA factor seems to apply to him, the party will have to quickly resolve the issue to offset the fragility of indecision in public perception.

The world's biggest party, with myriad lawmakers and chief ministers, is beset with a talent famine. The halcyon days in power have indeed created a phalanx of successful administrators. When the BJP was in the opposition, there were four Vajpayees for one Atal or one Advani to fill their shoes as party chief. As the process for choosing its 12th president is underway, the ink hasn't dried on many names.

● Shivraj Singh Chouhan: A leader who began his social service as an RSS swayamsevak at the age of 13 in 1972, Chouhan, now 65, appears to be the frontrunner. He has age, caste, credibility, experience and acceptability on his side. A three-time chief minister, he is an RSS darling and the least hated by the opposition. Affectionately called Mama in MP, he is a people's man and easily accessible. His innovative welfare and developmental schemes made the BJP almost invincible in the state. Hindutva has been the core principle of his governance. Both Vajpayee and Advani had identified him as a future leader and made him CM in 2005, and a member of the parliamentary board. Author of pro-farmer prosperity measures, he enjoys huge rural support. But his independent persona could be his liability.

● Devendra Fadnavis: Associated with the Sangh parivar for 35 years, the 54-year old-Maharashtra neta from Nagpur began political life in the ABVP. After coming to power in 2014, the talent-spotting Modi and Shah made Fadnavis, a Brahmin who was then 44, the second youngest CM of India's richest state. Senior leaders like Nitin Gadkari and Gopinath Munde were ignored for his sake. Fadnavis's distance from any local group and proximity to his supreme bosses has made him a frontrunner. But he hasn't handled any major national organisational work and has only marginal connect with the national cadres. His loyalty to Modi-Shah may not be enough to rocket him to the top.

PTI

● Vasundhara Raje: The 71-year-old ex-royal may be down, but is definitely not out of the ring. Overruled by the high command from staking her claim to the chief ministership of Rajasthan for the third time, she is currently one of BJP's national vice-presidents. Though her plug-in with the larger Sangh ecosystem is attenuated, the RSS leadership is positive, thanks to her late mother Vijaya Raje's legacy. Vasundhara has held numerous sensitive and important posts at the Centre, state and party. She is a two-time CM. A terrific orator, she is a nationally known face. If the BJP is looking for its first woman president, Raje's seniority, experience and gravitas fits the bill. Her disadvantage is that she hasn't handled any national responsibility that deals directly with the cadres. Moreover, she has kept a distance from the Modi-Shah combo, which has no love lost for her.

● Dharmendra Pradhan: Another former student leader with ABVP credentials, the 55-year-old Odiya strongman has been a force in the Sangh's and BJP's activities in Odisha and Delhi. He is seen by the top tier as a potential national leader and ideologically trustworthy. A national general secretary, Pradhan has handled state elections in Karnataka, Jharkhand, Chhattisgarh, Bihar, UP and Haryana. After the end of the Atal-Advani era, Modi kept him on in organisational and government positions—among them, as the longest serving petroleum minister since independence. This man of sensitive statecraft has skills better suited for governance, though his opponents allege he lacks national stature and pan-Indian acceptability.

● Bhupender Yadav: This 55-year-old Rajasthan-born advocate began his political career as a secretary of the RSS-controlled lawyers' organisation. He had emerged as a potential national leader during the Atal-Advani era. He was chosen by Nitin Gadkari as BJP national secretary in 2010. Since then, the non-controversial Yadav has been trusted by the top and given important party positions. He became a vital member of Shah's team after the latter became party president in 2014. As general secretary, he managed crucial state elections in Rajasthan, Gujarat and Chhattisgarh. He also played an active role in toppling the Uddhav Thackeray government. The importance of this low-profile backroom operator is evident as the Union minister of environment, forest and climate change, which is a super-sensitive ministry for Modi's agenda of Viksit Bharat. But a section of the RSS feels he is too junior to be party boss and handle the states where the BJP is in power.

● Sunil Bansal: A full-time RSS prachark on deputation to the BJP as general secretary, the 55-year-old Bansal's ABVP lineage and RSS experience had made him a master team leader whose philosophy is the ideology of nationhood. He was drafted by the RSS to lead the Youth Against Corruption campaign from 2010 to 2014. When Shah took over the BJP's election campaign in 2014, he made Bansal the UP in-charge, which enabled its massive Lok Sabha triumph and later assembly win. Bansal's mandate this time was handling Odisha, where the BJP came to power for the first time. However, a section of the leadership thinks Bansal needs more exposure to national politics and a strong alignment with the BJP's state-level architecture.

The problem with crystal-gazing is what you see isn't always what you get. Modi and the RSS have veto power, which is unprecedented in any state-and-church scenario. The old BJP had a battalion of national and regional satraps suited for the president's post. But they were veterans of clamorous battlefields, where they fought the Congress and opposition parties for over six decades. There were veteran leaders like Bhairon Singh Shekhawat, Pramod Mahajan, Kalyan Singh, Gopinath Munde, Ananth Kumar and Sushma Swaraj; B S Yeddyurappa is still around.

Modi is known to get ministers to resign and take up party jobs. It is likely that Rajnath Singh, Gadkari or Chouhan, or a tested and trusted lesser-known swayamsewak may replace Nadda. Of the 44 years of BJP's existence, Vajpayee and Advani led for 15 years. Shah created cohesiveness and a national footprint. Nadda's thinko that the BJP can survive without the RSS cost it dearly. Perhaps, the appointment of the next president next January will reflect whether he was right, or the RSS is still the mothership with a veto that rides the Hindutva wave created by Modi and his BJP.

BREAK BOLLYWOOD'S WALL OF SILENCE

IN late 2018, when Bollywood was in the grips of the MeToo movement, the Hema Committee was working towards bringing to light sexual harassment and discrimination against women in the Malayalam film industry. Since the committee's pathbreaking report was made public on August 19, there has barely been an acknowledgment of its gravity in one of the largest filmmaking industries.

Something seems rotten in the state of Bollywood when it comes to gender sensitivity. Instead of addressing the elephant in the room, the attempt has been to disregard it. "It's as if it's happening in another country, as if no parallels can be drawn here... How will the kettle call the pot black? It's like everybody is complicit and it keeps the business going," says screenwriter Atika Chohan.

Especially galling has been the blackout of the issue by celebrities. "The big names who identify as feminists could have brought it into the public sphere, but didn't do it," says journalist and author Karishma Upadhyay, who had made her own harassment known.

The tone deafness on the report stems basically from Bollywood having squandered the MeToo momentum. "Nothing changed... It's like MeToo never happened," adds Upadhyay.

What followed instead were attempts at diverting from and subverting the very essence of the movement. "Conversations around gender equality begin with defining feminism and not #NotAllMen. You start on the defensive. The issues and solutions are obvious. These feel like tactics to waste time and delay action," says Smriti Kiran, founder of Polka Dots Lightbox and curator of Maitri, a female-first collective.

There is the perception that, unlike Kerala, the movement in Mumbai remained driven by individuals and couldn't transform into a concerted exercise. "Solidarity was there among women who came out, but it got scattered," says filmmaker and editor of The Daily Eye, Vinta Nanda.

Some sets in Mumbai might feel safer now than others and clauses safeguarding women's rights might have been introduced in contracts by a few studios, but these are a few individual initiatives rather than systemic overhaul. There is celebration of these glacially-slow changes and any disappointment at these not being enough is scoffed at. "It is another form of gaslighting. All change towards bridging this divide is appreciated, but a lot more needs to be done and at a pace commensurate with the colossal gap. Pointing this out is being realistic and not negative," says Kiran.

Organisations like the the Screenwriters' Association and CINTAA did come out in support initially, but the engagement wasn't sustained. Many allege that the implementation of Vishakha guidelines and POSH Act 2013 has remained on paper; internal complaints committees have often turned out compromised.

Most of the men who were named and shamed in Bollywood eventually didn't just get exonerated but also comfortably rehabilitated. On the other hand, all the women who spoke up were left vulnerable to further abuse and pressure, their cases forced to a close. The most debilitating has been the denial of work and marginalisation within the industry.

Bollywood has been silent about discriminations against women in the industry since the publication of the momentous Hema Committee report. The progress made in the 2018 MeToo movement seems lost now

"The women are, in fact, much more in jeopardy for coming out and putting their heads and careers on the line... The Bollywood system has gone even more vigilant in making sure that it protects men more fiercely," says Chohan.

There is cynicism and bitterness among women, even among those at the top, and the allegations that many big wolves would still be roaming around in the industry, their predatory ways unchecked. "I do understand why the younger girls [of the 2018 MeToo movement] have disappeared and gone silent—because they have their whole lives and careers in front of them," says Nanda.

On the flip side, there have been righteous assertions by some filmmakers about having more women in their crew as a way to create equality of opportunity, but that has also left many unimpressed. "With the world watching, they have to include them. It's more like window dressing. They're not doing it willingly," says Nanda.

Kiran points out that the gatekeeping in the industry and how harsh it is for women to get decision making opportunities: "New male directors, if they do well, instantly become hot property. A woman, despite success, finds it hard to stay on the grid. If she fails then that turns into a funeral and not something that is par for the course. The parameters are skewed to say the least."

There are other issues enumerated in the Hema Committee report that hold true for Bollywood as well. Like the poor working conditions, denial of basic facilities on sets and, most importantly, a galling disparity in pay. "There must be pay parity. Then everything will fall into place. Pay me equally, and you will treat me equally," says Nanda.

According to Upadhyay, "Abhi Dilli door hai" (It's a long way to go) and powerful women in Bollywood—with the integrity of the likes of Parvathy Thiruvothu, Rima Kallingal, Revathi and Bina Paul—will need to step in and step up.

The Hema Committee was no doubt a game-changer, but it's appalling for it to have been lying buried for more than five years when it could have put the MeToo movement in a different space. Says Nanda: "We would have reached the goalpost back in 2019. I feel saddened that we lost a consequential moment."

I think the India-Pakistan rivalry is more about the emotions of the fans than anything else. It's not like the players don't talk to each other; it's the emotions from both nations that make it so intense. Scoring points

Chandrababu Naidu's move to ignite a controversy to score quick political points has accentuated the issue. The chief minister swiftly formed a probe team to ensure the investigation remained under his government's control. Now that his remarks have boomeranged after the Supreme Court's intervention, Naidu appears anxious that if his allegations are proven false in court the impact could be significant for him and his government.

Honour decision

Ref: Supreme Court sets up separate SIT (Oct 5). The Supreme Court's decision is fitting. At least now, both the ruling TDP and the opposition YSR Congress should keep quiet and honour the decision to dig out the truth without unnecessary remarks on the Tirumala Tirupati Devasthanams' functioning.

Just jails

The Supreme Court's decision against caste-based prejudice in jails is a major step towards ensuring everyone is treated with dignity and equality. But how can we make sure that states implement these changes? Practices from the colonial past remain in state jail manuals. What steps will be implemented to monitor compliance and end this prejudice? The court's order is only an important first step.

Anshu Bharti, Begusarai

Marital rape

Ref: Don't criminalise marital rape: Govt (Oct 4). One fails to understand why the BJP government is vehemently against criminalising marital rape. It was dismaying that former Union minister Smriti Irani, herself a woman, was in the forefront advocating against such legislation. There could be umpteen grounds on which a woman feels what is happening to her is nothing but rape by her husband. Not recognising it means not recognising gender equality. Rape, which is invariably unilateral, is not part of 'reasonable access to sex'.

Geetha B K, Kannur

Discriminatory stance

The recent comment made by the Union government counsel in the Supreme Court on the criminalisation of marital rape comes off as discriminatory, since both the Indian Penal Code and the new BNS have provisions against marital rape. There is no clear way out to figure if there was consent in both the statutes. So how is the safety provision only applicable for men? If this be the case, it raises question on the discriminatory nature of the approach towards married women's assault and rape.

Ladakh's concerns

The people there are deeply concerned about pressing environmental issues, regional affairs and the lack of essential services. Their key issues include the demand for tribal status under the Sixth Schedule, separate parliamentary constituencies for Leh and Kargil, and the establishment of a public service commission. Sadly, despite the region's activists' peaceful protest and padayatra, they were detained by the Delhi police. The government's apathy and the media's silence on this are strange.

Manaf did everything possible to provide moral and material support to Arjun's family when his truck was washed away and remained buried under water for 71 days. The fact that Manaf spent these 71 days at the site of the tragedy should explain his anguish.

MORE than 61.19% polling was recorded in the Haryana assembly polls on Saturday in which the ruling BJP is eyeing a third term and the Congress seeking a comeback after a decade.

Officials said polling, which closed at 6 pm, went on smoothly barring a clash in Nuh between supporters of two candidates which left three persons injured.

According to the data available at 5 pm, 61% polling has been registered and it will further increase once all information comes in.

The BJP, Congress, the INLD-BSP and the JJP-Azad Samaj Party alliances and the AAP are the key parties contesting the polls.

A total of 1,031 candidates are in the fray, including 101 women and 464 Independent nominees. The counting will take place on October 8.

Among the top names in the fray are Chief Minister Nayab Singh Saini, BJP's Anil Vij and OP Dhankar, Congress' Bhupinder Singh Hooda and Vinesh Phogat, INLD's Abhay Singh Chautala and JJP's Dushyant Chautala.

Among the districts, according to the Election Commission data available at 5 pm, Yamunanagar had recorded a poll percentage of 67.93, Sirsa 65.37, Rohtak 60.56, Nuh 68.28, Palwal 67.69, Mahendragarh 65.76, Kurukshetra 65.55 and Jind 66.02.

In Nuh, three people were injured in a minor clash among supporters of Congress MLA from Punhana and Independent candidate Rahish Khan.

IN the first assembly polls in Jammu and Kashmir after the abrogation of Article 370, the National Conference-Congress coalition has an advantage over the BJP in the 90-member House, according to a majority of the exit polls released on Saturday. The BJP, however, remained hopeful of forming government in the UT.

According to poll observers, if the exit polls prove right, there is high possibility of NC-Congress forming the next government in J&K, and even if they fall short of some seats, they can seek PDP support.

People's Democratic Party chief Mehbooba Mufti has already said that her party would support a secular government in J&K, though PDP leaders said on Saturday that the exit polls were not reliable and it was too early to talk about government formation.

Analysts said if the BJP wins 33-35 seats, it would eye the support of party-backed independents and smaller parties in Kashmir to reach the halfway mark of 46 seats.

NC vice-president Omar Abdullah described the exit polls as "just time pass" though the results are in favour of his party. "I am ignoring all the noise on channels, social media, WhatsApp, etc, because the only numbers that matter will be revealed on October 8," Abdullah wrote on X.

Reacting to the exit poll predictions, J&K BJP president Ravinder Raina said his party contested with all its strength. "We are confident that BJP will emerge as the single largest party when the results are out. We will start working on government formation," he said.

J&K Congress president Tariq Hameed Karra said the Congress-NC alliance is in a comfortable position to form the next government. "This election was primarily to keep the BJP out of power corridors, restoration of statehood and land and job guarantees," he said. (With PTI inputs)

DECIDE

PORTRAIT OF A LADY WHO HAS A STORY TO TELL

KARTIK BHARDWAJ

MANDAR PARDIKAR

THE so-called second film jinx might just be a myth. Last week, Kiran Rao's sophomore feature, Laapataa Ladies, was selected as India's official entry to the Academy Awards. The Film Federation of India (FFI) cited the film in a peculiar way, describing Indian women as a "strange mixture of submission and dominance"—a characterisation that doesn't quite fit any woman, least of all Rao. Born in Bangalore to an army officer's family, Rao grew up in Kolkata in the 1980s, attending Loreto House and La Martiniere schools—childhood years she once described as "magical." Though new toys and clothes were rare luxuries, Rao had easy access to books through libraries, and her upbringing emphasized well-rounded development, with lessons in piano, tennis, and swimming.

Following her academic interests, she pursued an undergraduate degree in Economics at Mumbai's Sophia College for Women, but the lure of cinema soon called. Rao went on to earn a postgraduate degree in Mass Communication from Delhi's Jamia Millia Islamia University. It was during this time that she was introduced to Italian Neorealism, the French New Wave, and Iranian cinema — all of which broadened her cinematic horizons, as she told us recently. Her first job brought her in close proximity to the Oscars when future filmmaker Reema Kagti roped her in as an assistant director on Ashutosh Gowariker's Lagaan (2001). Initially planned as a three-month shoot, it extended into a grueling six-month marathon in the heat of Gujarat's Bhuj. Rao has reminisced about the experience, likening it to film school. "I was in charge of getting the actors into layers of clothes — it was quite an experience."

It was on the sets of Lagaan that Rao met Aamir Khan, though they reconnected later, during the shoot of Swades (2004), eventually leading to their relationship. During the filming of Rang De Basanti (2006), she penned her first feature, Dhobi Ghat (2010), which she nervously presented to Khan, fearing he might dislike it. Instead, it went on to earn double its production cost. Dhobi Ghat can be thought of as Rao's love letter to Mumbai. Through its interconnected stories of an artist, a photographer, and a washerman with acting aspirations, the film explores the dreams and realities of life in the city. There's a scene where a newly-married girl named Yasmin (meaning "jasmine flower") documents her new life in Mumbai through video diaries—perhaps seeds being sown for Laapataa Ladies. The parallels between Yasmin in Dhobi Ghat and Phool, played by Nitanshi Goel in Laapataa Ladies, are unmistakable. Two flowers from different times, different gardens.

NEWSMAKER

After Dhobi Ghat, Rao's creative output as a director slowed. Candid about feeling stuck in a "rut of overthinking," she focused on producing during this period, backing films like Delhi Belly (2011), Talaash (2012), and Dangal (2016) under Aamir Khan Productions. Her return to the director's chair, after a 13-year hiatus, with Laapataa Ladies rose above the hardship of making the hardest of films: 'that second film'. Her efforts have paid off, with the film chosen as India's official entry for the Best International Feature Film category at the Oscars. However, this decision wasn't without its share of debates. Some argued that Payal Kapadia's All We Imagine as Light, a sensitive portrayal of two nurses in Mumbai, was a stronger contender. Additionally, criticisms emerged over the FFI's 'sexist' citation of Laapataa Ladies and the lack of women on the jury, with many calling them the real "laapataa ladies" (missing women). But that's a conversation for another day.

As Kiran Rao navigates her return to the director's chair, her journey continues to reflect a quiet strength and resilience that defies easy categorization—not unlike the women she chooses to portray on screen.

Shah to take stock of anti-Maoist ops with CMs of affected states

MUKESH RANJAN @ New Delhi

IN the wake of anti-Naxal operations in which 31 extremists were neutralised in Chhattisgarh, Union Home Minister Amit Shah has convened a meeting of chief ministers and home ministers from states affected by Left-Wing Extremism (LWE) on Monday.

The meeting is convened to take updates on the ongoing offensive and also discuss developmental projects in their respective jurisdictions, officials in the Ministry of Home Affairs (MHA) said.

Shah on Saturday spoke to Chhattisgarh Chief Minister Vishnu Deo Sai and took stock of the situation, said an MHA official, adding that the conversation between the two leaders centered on "the details of the encounter". Sai is reported to have said that his government has been conducting continuous search operations in Naxal-hit areas.

Shah, on his part, praised the efforts of the state police and Central forces involved in the operation and appreciated their commitment on eradicating the Naxal influence from the region, the officials said.

Beside Sai, others who will be attending the meeting on Monday, include Andhra Pradesh Chief Minister N Chandrababu Naidu, Nitish Kumar (Bihar), Hemant Soren (Jharkhand), A Revanth Reddy (Telangana), Mohan Charan Manjhi (Odisha), Eknath Shinde (Maharashtra) and Mohan Yadav (Madhya Pradesh).

It further said five Union ministers, whose ministries are directly involved in providing development support to the LWE-affected states, will also attend the meeting. The Deputy National Security Advisor and senior officers from Centre, states and Central Armed Police Forces will also be part of the deliberations.

EAM: No India-Pak talks at SCO, will behave accordingly

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi

A day after it was officially announced that External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar will lead a delegation to the Shanghai Corporation Organisation (SCO) Summit scheduled to be held in Islamabad from October 15-16, he said his intention is not to discuss India-Pakistan relations while being in that country.

"I am scheduled to go to Pakistan in the middle of this month for the SCO Summit. Normally, the Prime Minister would have gone. I expect there would be a lot of media address because of the very nature of the relation, but we will deal with it. But I do want to say that we are going for a multilateral event. I am not going there to discuss India-Pakistan relations. I am going there to be a good member of the SCO, but since I am a civil and courteous person, I will behave myself accordingly," said Jaishankar in Delhi on Saturday at a Sardar Patel memorial lecture.

The external affairs minister also said that like with any neighbour, India would certainly like to have good relations with Pakistan.

> I do want to say that we are going for a multilateral event. I am not going there to discuss India-Pakistan relations. I am going there to be a good member of the SCO, but since I am a civil and courteous person, I will behave myself accordingly
> S Jaishankar, External Affairs Minister

"But that cannot happen by overlooking cross-border terrorism and indulging in wishful thinking. As Sardar Patel demonstrated, realism must be the foundation for policy," Jaishankar said.

India's relationship with China is similarly an issue on which Sardar Patel's instincts are on record, and they differed considerably from that of the then prime minister, Jaishankar said, adding that the most cited example of that was their exchange of correspondence in 1950.

"In Patel's view, India had done everything to allay China's apprehensions, but that country regarded us with suspicion and skepticism, perhaps mixed with a little hostility," Jaishankar said, highlighting that for the first time, India's defence had to concentrate on two fronts simultaneously.

"Patel's assessment was that China had definite ambitions and aims that shaped its thinking about India in a less-than-friendly way," Jaishankar said.

Nehru, in contrast, referred to China's protestations of friendship and warned against losing our sense of perspective and giving way to unreasoning fears, the EAM said.

"To him, it was inconceivable that China would undertake, what he called a wild adventure across the Himalayas. He did not, in his words, envisage any real military invasion from China in the foreseeable future," Jaishankar said.

Each Northeast state a paradise for visitors, tourist & locals: Dhankhar

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

VICE-PRESIDENT Jagdeep Dhankhar on Saturday dubbed Northeast as the heart and soul of Bharat. He also urged the media to showcase the region's potential in tourism.

Speaking at a media conclave in Delhi, Dhankhar highlighted the transformative impact of the government's 'Act East' policy, and requested the media to give it importance in shaping national narratives. "Put together New Zealand, Switzerland, and Scotland and you will still fall short of the wealth the Northeast possesses. Each state in the region is a paradise for visitors, tourist and locals alike," Dhankhar remarked.

He also said the connectivity with Northeast has witnessed a remarkable change. "The number of airports has doubled, and waterways have expanded twentyfold, sparking immense interest and investment nationwide," he said.

Touching upon the recent recognition to Assamese—alongside Bengali, Marathi, Pali and Prakrit—as a classical language, he said, "This designation carries a positive effect, showcasing the rich cultural heritage of our nation."

He also dwelt upon the Northeast's spiritual and natural heritage, mentioning the Kamakhya temple and Kaziranga National Park.

Highlighting the region's exquisite cuisine, he said, "I cannot describe in words the kind of cultural fiesta I experienced there. The Northeast is the heart and soul of Bharat."

Spelling out one of the salient features of the government's 'Act East Policy,' Dhankhar said it is not confined to the frontiers of the nation but goes beyond, fostering deeper connections with Southeast Asian countries.

"This policy will be a game changer, fostering deeper cultural and economic ties with the region," he remarked.

Bihar told not to annul selection of junior engineers

SUCHITRA K MOHANTY @ New Delhi

TERMING it "impermissible", the Supreme Court on Friday set aside Bihar government's decision to scrap the 2019 selection process for the appointment of over 6,000 junior engineers in the state's water resources department.

A two-judge bench of Justices Bela M Trivedi and Satish Chandra Sharma delivered the verdict after hearing an appeal against the Patna High Court order, which closed the pending cases against the scrapping of appointment process after noting the state's decision.

Scrapping the entire selection process after its completion "amounts to effectively changing the rules of the game after the game was played, which is impermissible," observed the top court bench.

It directed the Bihar Technical Service Commission to proceed with the appointment process according to the fresh select list they submitted to the Patna High Court.

"The fresh select list be prepared in view of the order dated April 19, 2022, passed by the high court, and the fresh list shall also include those meritorious candidates who were otherwise eligible but were declared ineligible solely on account of the 2017 amendment to the rules, that is, on account of their institute not being recognised by the AICTE, and all similarly placed successful candidates," the bench ordered.

It also directed the Bihar Technical Service Commission to prepare the revised list of successful candidates within three months and ordered the state government to appoint them within 30 days thereafter.

The court was hearing the petitions challenging the validity of one of the rules of the Bihar Water Resources Department Subordinate Engineering (Civil) Cadre Recruitment (Amendment) Rules 2017.

The rule prescribed technical qualification eligibility for selection and appointment to the post in Bihar.

Speedy trial order no ground to deny bail: SC

The Supreme Court has recently said that the trend of high courts directing the trial courts to conclude trials within a set time frame instead of granting bail, without taking the backlogs in trial courts into consideration, is not permissible. The top court had, while issuing notice in a case last month, emphasized that bail cannot be rejected merely on the ground that the trial will be expedited.

"We will tell you the trend in high courts now. Courts are reluctant to grant bail. They say, 'Alright, decide the case within six months,' without knowing what the pendency in trial courts is, just to give psychological satisfaction to everybody. Such orders don't work. They are not permissible in light of the Constitution bench judgment," a two-judge bench said.

Mere delay in forwarding FIR not fatal: SC

SUCHITRA K MOHANTY @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court, while hearing a case recently, observed that a mere delay in forwarding the FIR to the jurisdictional magistrate would not be fatal to the prosecution's case, unless it is shown by the accused that the delay had caused prejudice to his or her case.

"This court, in the State of Rajasthan versus Daud Khan case in 2016, has examined the case law on the subject and held that when there is a delay in forwarding the FIR (First Information Report) to the jurisdictional magistrate. And as the accused raises a specific contention regarding the same, they must demonstrate how this delay has prejudiced their case. Mere delay by itself is not sufficient to discard and disbelieve the case of the prosecution," the order said.

DIAMONDS AREN'T FOREVER

Crisis in industry as over 60 workers commit suicide in six months amid economic distresss

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA
@ Ahmedabad

INDIA'S diamond industry is facing a severe crisis, with the Gujarat Diamond Workers' Union reporting that over 60 factory workers have taken their own lives in the past six months due to economic distress. The union emphasizes that this alarming trend highlights the dire conditions plaguing the sector, pushing many artisans to despair.

A recent report reveals that the diamond industry employs more than 1.3 million individuals nationwide, with over 800,000 workers based in Surat alone.

The diamond industry is currently grappling with a significant downturn, attributed to a decline in import and export activity over the past three years, driven by various global and domestic challenges. Factors such as the ongoing conflicts involving Russia-Ukraine, and Israel have severely impacted the arrival of rough diamonds in India, resulting in factory closures, defaults, and reduced working hours for workers.

Global recession

Diamond market experts indicate a marked decline in demand for polished diamonds in key markets such as the United States, China and Europe. This downturn can be attributed to a combination of economic uncertainty, inflationary pressures, and escalating geopolitical tensions, all of which have tarnished the appeal of the diamond market.

Additionally, the ongoing global recession has led consumers to tighten their budgets, resulting in reduced spending on luxury items, including diamonds. As a result, the once-thriving diamond industry is facing significant challenges as it navigates this complex landscape of diminished consumer confidence and shifting spending habits.

"Diamond workers have been battling unemployment challenges for the past three years," says Gujarat Diamond Workers Association vice president Bhavesh Tank.

"Salaries have been reduced by 20 to 30%, and major diamond units are operating only four-five days a week," Tank said.

Rising suicide rate

Tank says over 60 diamond artisans have committed suicide due to financial struggles in the last six months. "Neither the government nor the industry has acknowledged these tragedies, despite the dire conditions their families are left in," he said.

Since its launch in July, the Diamond Workers Union Gujarat (DWUG) suicide helpline has received over 1,600 calls — averaging more than 50 calls a day. "This response highlights the distress within the diamond workforce," says Tank.

According to him, nearly 75% of the callers are workers who have lost their jobs, underscoring the deep financial and emotional crisis affecting the industry. "These figures are a stark reminder of the urgent need for intervention to support struggling diamond artisans," says Tank.

Cycle of debt

Most diamond workers come from villages, points out Ramesh Jilria, president of the Gujarat Diamond Workers Association. "Many artisans who can't make ends meet or secure loans in the cities have returned to their villages, hoping for better prospects," says Jilria.

"Workers end up borrowing money to pay off another debt, getting trapped in a vicious cycle," adds Ramesh Jilria, president of the Gujarat Diamond Workers Association. Diamond artisans in larger cities are taking personal loans, often from private financiers, to cover school fees and family expenses, as banks charge prohibitive interest rates, Jilria said.

The Gujarat Diamond Workers Association has called on the state government to introduce an urgent financial relief package for struggling diamond artisans.

"Most suicide cases have gone unnoticed by both the government and the industry," Tank said. "These families are left in dire conditions and need immediate assistance."

No hope of recovery

The association has proposed the establishment of a 'Ratnakalakar Kalyan Board' to oversee the welfare and social security of diamond artisans across the state. "A dedicated board will ensure continuous support and policy-making for the well-being of workers, preventing future crises," says Jilria. "We need long-term solutions."

"While the condition of the artisans may be miserable, industry owners argue they are in even worse shape," says Naimesh Pachchigar, Gujarat president of the Indian Bullion Jewellers Association. According to Pachchigar, the global diamond industry was expected to grow by 5.1% to 7% between 2023 and '24, but "the reality is grimmer."

The US retail market is a major driver of our industry, and any slowdown there directly impacts the diamond sector, says Pachchigar.

The industry typically experiences a seasonal boom during Diwali and September, but this year has been an exception.

The ongoing recession in European countries is also contributing to the slump. "America is the main market for Gujarat's diamond industry, but given the current economic conditions in the US, it's natural that people aren't buying diamonds," says Dinesh Navdiya, president of the Indian Diamond Institute and former regional chairman of the Gem & Jewellery Export Promotion Council (GJEPC).

Independent candidates, small parties on focus

As political parties and contesting candidates in Jammu and Kashmir are eagerly looking forward to counting of votes for J&K Assembly on October 9, the small parties and independent candidates may come into focus if there is a fractured mandate. The NC-Congress alliance forged an alliance on 83 out of the total 90 Assembly seats in J&K. On the five seats the two parties were involved in a friendly contest while the alliance left two seats – one each in Kashmir and Jammu to their allies – CPI(M) leader Mohammad Yousuf Tarigami and J&K National Panthers Party (JKNPPP) leader Harsh Dev Singh.

Omar rules out NC alliance with BJP

Amid rumours that BJP and National Conference leaders have met to discuss post poll scenario, J&K's grand old party NC has ruled out alliance with the saffron party in Jammu and Kashmir. The NC president Farooq Abdullah said the party would never forge an alliance with BJP to form the government in J&K. He said any party that aligns with BJP will vanish in J&K. Earlier, NC spokesperson Imran Nabi Dar dismissed speculation about NC and BJP forging post poll alliance as baseless. "NC remains firmly aligned with INDIA Bloc and is not engaging in any outside negotiations," he said.

Cong being run by 'urban Naxals', says PM in Maha rally

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @Mumbai

ALLEGING that the Congress is being run by a "gang of urban Naxals", Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Saturday urged the public to unite in defeating the "dangerous agenda" of the grand old party that has a history of looting people once it comes to power.

PM Modi was in Maharashtra to unveil and lay the foundations for various infrastructure and development projects. This is his third visit to the state in the last few days ahead of state assembly elections scheduled for November.

With an eye on power, Congress makes many false promises that they fail to achieve once in power. "They indulge in selfish politics and do nothing for the people. While one of the chief ministers has usurped people's land, another Congress-ruled state of Himachal Pradesh wants to impose tax on toilets. The party is scared that if the people unite, their nefarious designs of dividing the country will fall flat," Modi said. He was addressing a rally in Washim after launching various projects.

"We have to be alert. A gang of urban Naxals runs Congress. Everyone can see how closely Congress stands with those who do not harbour good intentions for India. Drugs worth thousands of crores of rupees were seized in Delhi recently. A Congress leader is suspected to be the kingpin. Congress wants to contest elections from the money it gets by pushing the youth towards drugs," he alleged.

Likening the Congress to the Britishers, the PM said, "Like the British, the Congress also does not consider Dalits, backward and tribals as their equals. That is why they have always maintained a derogatory attitude towards the Banjara community," he said. Saints from the community inspired culture and spiritualism, but the British despised them. Even after they left the country, successive Congress govts continued to prevent the community from coming into the mainstream, the PM added.

Rahul invokes Shivaji, 'two ideologies' in Kolhapur

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @Mumbai

CONGRESS leader Rahul Gandhi on Saturday said that the statue of Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj collapsed days after its installation in Malwan as it was erected by those opposed to his true ideology.

Gandhi, the Leader of the Opposition in the Lok Sabha, made the remarks at the Savidhan Sanman sammelan after unveiling the full-sized statue of Chhatrapati in Kolhapur.

"We should at least imbibe some of the principals Shivaji Maharaj stood, fought and lived for. He accomplished great deeds by uniting people of all castes and religions and fighting against injustice. Ch. Shivaji Maharaj's ideals and ideas are truly reflected in the Constitution of India," said the Congress MP, adding if it weren't for Shivaji Maharaj and Rajarshi Shahu Maharaj, the Constitution wouldn't exist.

Congress leader Rahul Gandhi unveils Chhatrapati Shivaji Maharaj statue | PTI

He said there are two ideologies in the country -- one that unites the nation and works, while the other (referring to RSS-BJP) is against the Constitution and aims to destroy it. "This second type of ideology instills fear in the peoples' minds.

Those who follow this ideology may bow before Shivaji Maharaj, but they do not follow his true ideals and principles. This same ideology tried to put hurdles in Shivaji Maharaj's coronation (Rajyabhishek). They built a statue of him, but it collapsed within a few days. This is not a political battle, but a battle of ideas," Gandhi said.

Dalits, backward classes, and marginalized groups are not given enough opportunities in industries, businesses, or courts. "Due to the privatization of government institutions, reservations are being eliminated. To change this situation, it is crucial to protect the Constitution, for which the first step would be removal of 50% cap on reservations. The INDIA alliance will remove this cap and pass caste-based census legislation in Parliament," he stated.

Underscoring the significance of caste-based census, he said, "A caste-based census is like an X-ray, which will identify the problems of various communities and help find solutions."

Locals, cops fight pitched battle as 10-yr-old girl found dead in Bengal

SULAGNA SENGUPTA @ Kolkata

THE body of a 10-year-old girl, allegedly raped and murdered, was found in West Bengal's South 24 Parganas district on Saturday, prompting local residents to set fire to a police outpost, police said.

Villagers said the minor had been missing since Friday evening and the police did not act on their complaint promptly. As the body of the girl was recovered by locals from a marshy land, a mob torched the Mahismari police outpost, a police officer said.

A large police force was sent to the area, and tear gas shells were fired to disperse the mob, the officer said.

"The family members of the girl lodged an FIR at the Mahismari utpost but the police did not act on the complaint immediately," said Ganesh Dolui, a local.

Police responded similarly following the discovery of a woman doctor's body at RG Kar Hospital in August, another villager said.

The police said they acted immediately upon receiving the complaint. "After lodging an FIR at 9 pm on Friday, police arrested an accused on Saturday morning," a police officer said. When Kultali TMC MLA Ganesh Mondal attempted to calm the villagers, he was chased away. Mondal later said, "Our party and I are with the aggrieved villagers and the parents of the child."

State BJP chief Sukanta said, "The women of Bengal are not safe. They are being killed even during Devi Paksha."

Gang-rape of foreigner sparks Gujarat outrage

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA
@ Ahmedabad

A teenage girl, a foreigner, was allegedly raped by unidentified people, who restrained her male friend, on the outskirts of Gujarat's Vadodara city, police said on Saturday. "The survivor told the police that she had gone out to meet her childhood male friend around 11 pm on Friday. They were returning on a Scooty, five people on two-wheelers intercepted them, said Vadodara (rural) SP Rohan Anand.

Two of them left after some argument, while three others remained. Of these three, two raped the girl, while the third person restrained her friend, he said. "The teens informed the police," Anand said.

Docs on fast unto death after demands ignored

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Kolkata

THE junior doctors, protesting the rape-and-murder of their colleague at the RG Kar hospital, ended their cease-work but announced an indefinite fast, citing non-fulfilment of their demands by the West Bengal government despite the 24-hour deadline they set.

On Friday, the doctors had begun a sit-in at Dorina Crossing in Dharmatala, setting a 24-hour deadline for the state government to fulfil their demands as promised. "We are returning to work and ending our cease-work keeping in mind the good of the citizens and the festive season. The sit-in on the road will, however, continue 24X7. We will start an indefinite hunger strike if the state government fails to meet our demands within 24 hours," said Debasish Halder, a junior doctor at the forefront of the protest this evening.

Another protesting doctor Aniket Mahata said, "We have ended the cease-work, not the agitation. Protests will continue in various forms. We will see it to the end till we get justice. We will continue our sit-in and start a hunger strike after completing our duties."

Soon after their 24-hour deadline ended, a decision to begin the fast unto death was taken.

Holding the state government responsible for the decision, a junior doctor said, "We have installed CCTV cameras at the dais where our colleagues will be holding the fast. We will join duty as promised but will not eat anything."

The indefinite fast will be kick-started by six junior doctors. Junior doctors resumed their strike across all medical colleges and hospitals on October 1 after relatives of a patient, who died in Sagore Dutta Hospital, attacked some medics and nurses on September 27.

The doctors said the government is yet to keep its promise of strengthening security in state-run hospitals.

HEZBOLLAH LOSES CONTACT WITH NASRALLAH SUCCESSOR

The group has not heard from Hashem Safieddine after an Israeli strike targeting him

Smoke rises from a building hit by an Israeli airstrike that targeted Beirut's southern suburbs on Saturday | AFP

BEIRUT

A high-level Hezbollah source said on Saturday that contact with Hashem Safieddine, widely touted as potentially the group's next leader, had been lost following Israeli strikes this week. "Contact with Sayyed Safieddine has been lost since the violent strikes on Beirut's southern suburbs" early on Friday, the official told AFP. "We don't know if he was at the targeted site, or who may have been there with him," he added.

A second source close to Hezbollah also confirmed that communication had been cut off with Safieddine and that his whereabouts were unknown.

Hezbollah "is trying to reach the underground headquarters that were targeted, but every single time Israel starts striking again to impede rescue efforts," he said. Safieddine "was with Hezbollah's head of intelligence," known as Hajj Murtada, when the strikes took place, he said.

Both sources requested anonymity to discuss sensitive matters. Early on Friday, a source close to Hezbollah said Israel had conducted 11 consecutive strikes on the group's south Beirut stronghold, in one of the most powerful raids since Israel intensified its campaign of bombardment campaign last week.

Israel widens attacks

Israel expanded its bombardment in Lebanon on Saturday, hitting Beirut's southern suburbs with 12 airstrikes and striking a Palestinian refugee camp deep in northern Lebanon for the first time.

The attack on the Beddawi refugee camp near the northern city of Tripoli killed an official with Hamas's military wing, along with his wife and two young daughters, the Palesitnian militant group said in a statement. Tripoli is much farther north than the majority of Israel's strikes, which have been concentrated in southern Lebanon and Beirut. Israel has killed several Hamas officials in Lebanon since the Israel-Hamas war began in October last year, in addition to most of the top leadership of Hezbollah.

At least six people were killed in more than a dozen Israeli airstrikes overnight and into Saturday, according to National News Agency, Lebanon's official news agency. The Israeli military said special forces were carrying out targeted ground raids against Hezbollah infrastructure in southern Lebanon, destroying missiles, launchpads, watchtowers and weapons storage facilities. The military said troops also dismantled tunnel shafts that Hezbollah used to approach the Israeli border.

Some 1,400 Lebanese, including Hezbollah fighters and civilians, have been killed and some 1.2 million driven from their homes since Israel escalated its strikes in late September aiming to cripple Hezbollah and push it away from the countries' shared border. On Tuesday, Israel launched what it called a limited ground operation into southern Lebanon.

Macron urges halt to arms deliveries to Israel

French President Emmanuel Macron on Saturday urged a halt to arms deliveries to Israel, which has been criticised over the conduct of its retaliatory operation in Gaza. "I think that today, the priority is that we return to a political solution, that we stop delivering weapons to fight in Gaza," Macron told broadcaster France Inter. "France is not delivering any," he added during the interview recorded early this week.

TRUMP SAYS ISRAEL SHOULD HIT NUCLEAR SITES IN IRAN

WASHINGTON

REPUBLICAN White House hopeful Donald Trump said Friday he believes Israel should strike Iran's nuclear facilities in response to the Islamic republic's recent missile barrage.

"They asked him, what do you think about Iran, would you hit Iran? And he goes, 'As long as they don't hit the nuclear stuff.' That's the thing you want to hit, right?" Trump told a town hall style event in Fayetteville, near a major US military base.

Biden was asked on Wednesday whether he would support strikes against Iranian nuclear sites and the US president told reporters: "The answer is no."

"I think he's got that one wrong," Trump said Friday, in response to a participant's question about the issue. "Isn't that what you're supposed to hit? I mean, it's the biggest risk we have, nuclear weapons," he said. "When they asked him that question, the answer should have been, hit the nuclear first, and worry about the rest later," Trump added.

Biden on Wednesday expressed his opposition to such strikes against Iran's nuclear facilities, in response to the firing of missiles at Israel. AFP

Reduction in uncertainties in China will attract higher capital allocation to emerging mkts

How will China stimulus impact India

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

CHINA'S effort to revive its economy via a financial and monetary stimulus package is perceived to have a strong impact on India - positive as well as negative. While the initial impact is being felt on Dalal Street as the foreign institutional investors (FIIs) are seen "selling India and buying China", the success of the package might prove to be beneficial for India. Experts feel it may result in flight of higher foreign funds to India via emerging market route, negligible impact on "China + 1" and control of excessive dumping of finished Chinese products.

"The package is a bold set of interventions by the government. It will allay fears among foreign investors who were becoming sceptical about the Chinese government's ability to make big-bang reforms. Last time they conducted major reforms was in 2008, which ushered China into to a new league of development backed by large foreign investor participation. I expect the Chinese investment instruments will gradually start to gain some of their lost sheen, starting with its equities followed by real estate," said Debopam Chaudhuri, chief economist of Piramal Group

As per him, this is piece of good news for India as well. "China serves as a lighthouse to foreign investors searching for emerging market (EM) opportunities. Reduction in uncertainties within China will attract higher capital allocation to EMs, and India with its growth potential can attract a large share of that pie.

CHINA STIMULUS PACKAGE
Experts feel that it may result in flight of higher foreign funds to India through the emerging market route
This week alone, the FIIs sold shares worth
₹41K Cr
in the Indian market as they find the valuation of Chinese stock much more attractive
Package will benefit Indian metal sector, especially steel firms given China has been dumping its metal everywhere
Domestic solar panel manufacturers might find some relief if housing sector improves in China and there is more demand for energy.
Local firms have been struggling big time to compete with cheap Chinese metals
India exported goods worth $16.67 bn to China in FY24, its imports stood at $101.75 bn, resulting in a trade deficit of over $85 bn
The People's Bank of China cut reserve requirement ratio by 0.5%, releasing about 1 trillion yuan ($141.8 bn) in liquidity
CHINA'S STIMULUS PACKAGE INCLUDES A RANGE OF MEASURES TO BOOST ECONOMIC GROWTH
Mortgage rates for existing loans are being reduced, with about 150 mn citizens expected to benefit
Additionally, China is enhancing support for its financial markets and capital investment

FIIS' SHARE SELLING

While India may attract higher funds via the EM basket in future, so far the local market, which saw its biggest weekly slump this week in more than two years, has seen a exodus of FIIs. This week alone, FIIs sold shares worth ₹40,000 crore in the Indian market as they find the valuation of Chinese stock much more attractive.

V K Vijayakumar, chief investment strategist, Geojit Financial Services, on Saturday said geopolitical tensions in the Middle-East have become a worry for global equity markets. But the markets have, so far, shrugged off these tensions. The US market is resilient with 21% returns year to date. Even as crude has risen in recent days, there is no sharp spike so far. The situation will change if Israel attacks oil installations in Iran, he added.

"FIIs turned sellers in the Indian market in October... The selling has been triggered by outperformance of Chinese stocks. Hang Seng index shot up by 26% in last one month and this bullishness is expected to continue since valuations of Chinese stocks are very low and the Chinese economy is expected to do well in response to the monetary and fiscal stimulus," Vijayakumar said.

"If the momentum in Chinese stocks continues, FIIs may continue to sell in India where valuations are elevated. It remains to be seen how long the optimism lasts. FII selling in financials, especially frontline banking stocks have made their valuations attractive. Long-term domestic investors may utilise this opportunity to buy banking stocks."

INDIAN METAL SECTOR

A few economists argue that the package, aimed at reviving the stressed housing sector in China, will benefit Indian metal companies, especially steel firms given China, which has a problem of overcapacity, has been dumping its metal everywhere. Local firms have been struggling to compete with cheap Chinese metals, which is having a severe impact on their pricing power and profit margins. A similar phenomenon is being seen in other areas like solar panels and automobiles.

"The stimulus might drive up domestic steel demand in China, which may help reduce pressure of Chinese steel exports flooding global markets. Domestic solar panel manufacturers might find some relief if housing sector improves in China and there is more demand for energy. In some critical areas, China may even raise its imports from India if its economy improve," said a senior economist at a leading rating agency. India exported goods worth $16.67 billion to China in FY24. Its imports stood at $101.75 billion, resulting in a trade deficit of over $85 billion. Announced in late September 2024, China's latest stimulus includes a range of measures to boost economic growth. The People's Bank of China cut the reserve requirement ratio by 0.5%, releasing about 1 trillion yuan ($141.8 billion) in liquidity. Mortgage rates for loans are being reduced, with 150 million citizens expected to benefit, aimed at stimulating the housing market. China is enhancing support for its financial markets and capital investment. These actions are in line for China to meet its 5% growth target for 2024.

NEWSCOPE

GURBIR SINGH

IN the old days, especially in the smaller cities and towns, a 'developer' meant the chap who had the pluck to convert some agricultural land to 'residential use'. He would then divide it up, provide water and electricity connections and sell plots to families to build their own houses.

What came up was a bit of a mess, but that's how residential communities flourished. Over time, the definition of a 'developer' changed. By building row houses, or flats in multistorey buildings, the 'developer' added more value and increased his profit margin. For a buyer, it was a neater home without the hassle of putting brick and mortar together.

Now meet someone who has gone on reverse gear, moving from developing buildings and flats to selling plots in residential layouts. Abhinandan Lodha, a young 42-year old entrepreneur, son of the famous builder-politician Mangal Prabhat Lodha, has extricated himself from the shadows of his father and brother, Abhisheck Lodha, to build scale with 'plots-only' realty projects.

FAMILY BREAK-UP

I first met the young Abhinandan over a decade ago, when the Lodha Group had acquired Mumbai's Shrinivas Mills and had launched the now famous 'World One' tower in Parel. It was a chance meeting at the office of a senior HDFC Realty officer. The Lodha scion was then negotiating a crucial Rs 500 crore loan for the Shrinivas project.

"We couldn't go ahead without the HDFC loan. Though it was sanctioned by the realty team, HDFC chairman Deepak Parekh said 'no'. It was the post-Lehman Brothers period of tight finance, and though I tried my best, the Parekh refused," recounted Abhinandan in a recent interview.

For three days the young realtor sat outside Mr Parekh's Churchgate office. Abhinandan Lodha recounted his experience: "By the second day, the chairman asked me: You are still here? I said – Yes! Where will I go? I need the loan, sir. Deepak Parekh nodded and went inside his office, but then again found me where he left me when he was leaving in the evening. This went on. By the end of the third day, the chairman relented. He called his team and told them to draw up the papers!"

In the early days when the Lodha Group, later rechristened Macrotech Developers, grew at a heady pace, the younger Lodha remained in the background leaving his brother Abhisheck to be the front face of the company. However, he cut his teeth early negotiating a record FDI deal of $410 million with Deutsche Bank when he was just 25. A few years later he drove the ₹5,700-core land purchase of the Wadala container terminal that today is a sprawling 30-acre gated community called 'New Cuffe Parade'.

In-charge of sales, marketing and finance, Abhinandan seemed to be doing well. So why did he split from the family company? "I did not want to be someone's shadow," he said. To the question, whether father Mangal Prabhat Lodha mediated to set things right with his brother Abhisheck, Abhinandan was diffident. He said the father was occupied with politics as an MLA and a major BJP functionary, and chose to stay away from the snarl.

Was the separation bitter? "Let's say the separation was non-consensual; but it is not litigative either," responded Abhinandan.

NEW REALTY MODEL

It was quite a struggle differentiating himself from the Lodha group and starting from scratch. He used the rather pompous title 'House of Abhinandan Lodha' or HoABL. He initially set up Lodha Ventures to incubate creative tech start-ups and also launched a private equity firm 'Capital Tomorrow'. But after all his first calling was that of a realtor. It all started with a fluke joint venture with his legal attorney, Bergis Desai, a senior partner in the solicitors firm, J Sagar Associates. A 100-acre property in Dapoli, in Maharashtra's coastal Konkan belt was acquired and developed in 2021 as a getaway resort called 'Isle of Bliss'. "With focused marketing, the majority of the plots – ranging from 450 to 20,000 sq ft – were picked up in 3 weeks.

The success of the Dapoli experiment spurred on investments in land-buying and the sale of developed plots in a string of locations – two projects in Goa, and Sol-de-Alibaug just off the Mumbai coast. HoABL also launched two large plotted developments in Ayodhya covering 125 acres cashing in on the run for land after the construction of the Ram Mandir.

Lodha says he will be investing ₹1,800 crore over fiscal 2024-25 with about ₹550 crore earmarked for construction and infrastructure development and the rest committed to buying land. He intends to target highway corridors, and resort locations to ensure quick appreciation. The model is workable as the upfront investment is low compared to full construction projects, while the turnaround time is quick – ranging from 9 to 30 months. If sales are robust, there is a constant cash flow for quick expansion.

On the other hand, a linear business plan based on the sale of plots alone has obvious risks. It is entirely dependent on secondary demand, and the company could face serious losses if there are changes in the development plan of a region. Abhinandan Lodha is modernizing an old product for the realty market, and it will be interesting to see how far it will go.

SBI declares MTNL loan as NPA due to payment default

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE State Bank of India (SBI) has declared loans given to state-owned Mahanagar Telecom Nigam Limited (MTNL) as a sub-standard non-performing asset (NPA) due to default in re-payment.

According to a letter from SBI, MTNL's total outstanding loan balance was at ₹325.52 crore as of September 30, with ₹281.62 crore overdue, requiring immediate payment to regularise the account. SBI emphasised that failure to settle the overdue amount will lead to a penal interest rate on the outstanding balance.

"Your attention is also drawn to the term that in case the overdue(s) are not so liquidated, a penal rate of interest is chargeable on such outstanding," reads the letter.

This is not the first time MTNL has encountered issues with loan payments. Punjab National Bank downgraded the company to NPA in September, and both Union Bank of India and Bank of India have also classified MTNL loans as NPA.

Union Bank of India has frozen all MTNL's accounts due to non-payment of dues. Currently, as of August 30, 2024, MTNL's total reported debt stands at ₹31,944.51 crore. Earlier in August, MTNL informed the stock exchanges that it had defaulted on bank loan payments amounting to ₹422.05 crore.

This included ₹155.76 crore owed to Union Bank of India, ₹40.33 crore to Bank of India, ₹40.01 crore to Punjab & Sind Bank, ₹41.54 crore to Punjab National Bank, and ₹4.04 crore to UCO Bank.

Meanwhile, MTNL has requested ₹1,151.65 crore from the government to cover interest arising from sovereign guarantee bonds in the current fiscal year. In the budget, the finance ministry allocated ₹3,668.97 crore for the payment of the principal amount of MTNL bonds.

SBI has also sought details regarding MTNL's land monetisation plan and whether proceeds from such monetisation can be used to settle the dues. In its letter, State Bank noted that MTNL has signed a Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) with NBCC to jointly develop a 13.88 acre land parcel on Pankha Road, New Delhi, and requested information about the MoU and whether the proceeds from the project will be utilized to clear outstanding debts.

Household debt up 26% CAGR since '20

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

FINANCIAL liabilities/indebtedness of the households, which nearly doubled to 5.6% of GDP in FY23, have grown at a compounded annual growth rate of 26% between FY20 and FY23 as against 17% in the pre-pandemic decade, while their savings grew at a much lower 9%, down from 11%, shows an analysis.

Households' share of savings in physical assets rose to 54% in FY23 from 50% pre-pandemic, while the share of savings in the form of precious metals remained relatively stable and minimal at 0.2% of GDP.

Major rise in financial liabilities was primarily driven by personal loans, particularly housing and unsecured loans. Personal loans from scheduled commercial banks grew at an annualised rise of 18.2% since FY20, up 15.1% in the pre-pandemic decade, as per a Care Ratings' weekend analysis. While gross financial savings peaked at 15.4% in FY21 due to the pandemic, net household financial savings have been on a southward-ho mainly due to a rise in financial liabilities.

Gauff rallies to reach China Open final

Coco Gauff rallied from a set down for the third consecutive match as she beat Paula Badosa 4-6, 6-4, 6-2 on Saturday to advance to the final of the China Open. The sixth-ranked Gauff will play Karolina Muchova of the Czech Republic in Sunday's final as the 20-year-old American bids for her second WTA-1000 level title.

One of the best bowlers in the world, Australia's Schutt opens up to Kalyani Mangale about her journey as a queer athlete, how perspectives have changed after becoming a mother and more...

MORE PRIDE, LESS PREJUDICE

I remember proposing to Jess (wife, Jessica), it wasn't legal when I did that & we even got to the point of going like, should we just elope? We were thinking about going to New Zealand where it is legal.

— Megan Schutt, Oz pacer

MEGAN Schutt has plenty of tattoos. From a pineapple to a flamingo named 'Freddy' and a camel to just a normal smiling face. There are plenty of them. However, on her bowling arm rests potentially the most important tattoo she has ever inked. It simply says "No place for Hate."

While the other tattoos show the quirky side of the most senior pacer in the Australian squad, this tattoo is something she lives by. Schutt has always been that person. As one of the few queer athletes representing Australia long before same-sex marriage became a legal reality in 2016, she has been exceptionally vocal about her opinions. She prefers calling herself 'stubborn'. "I am more stubborn about this sort of stuff than other people," Schutt told this daily, remembering the time when same-sex marriage was not legal in Australia. "What hurt was the legality of it. Not having the legality of a piece of paper to say that in an emergency, I'm the person of contact. I am her wife. Everything that was deemed important for a heterosexual couple wasn't possible for a gay couple. And I hated that because it's obviously inequality, but it's also you are just seen as less natural. I guess it was more frustrating than anything because, to me, it seemed like a pretty easy law to change," Schutt remembers.

After 22 unsuccessful attempts in the Federal Parliament to legalise or recognise it under federal law, on 15 December 2017, as a result of a voluntary postal survey where 61.6% of respondents voted in favour of same-sex marriage, Schutt was legally allowed to marry in her own country. She remembers how she was on the flight when the results were supposed to be announced and that mixture of excitement and anxiety was enough for her to remain emotional throughout her journey. "I was on a flight. I knew that the results were being publicised that day. So I knew that when we landed, I was about to find out what the ending was to that. When we landed I had a bunch of messages from different people. And obviously, it's splashed all over social media. And I remember being over the moon. I got a bit emotional on the plane at the time. It was a roller coaster ride of emotions for a few days."

Sunday Special

In the tide change that eventually happened, Cricket Australia as an employer of the athletes stood behind their queer players on every walk. She was surprised by that active support but also believes that it led to many conversations among her teammates that they probably would have never had before. "I didn't think that they (Cricket Australia) were going to do that. That was a nice surprise. And guess it's what follows from that really, which is the conversation," she added. "I remember sitting down with Midge (captain Alyssa Healy) randomly one day and she was like, Shooter, I never really thought about it. When planning our wedding (with Australian men's player Mitchell Starc) we had that privilege. She was like, we didn't have to think about 'will people allow us to get married?'. Will this be acceptable? Will people make our cake or people want to be our celebrant? She said, we never had to think of any of that and I'm really sorry. That was one of the most candid conversations I and Midge had at the time. And I was like, well, thank you. You don't need to apologize. She's not part of the problem. But thank you. I guess, it's conversations that are what change people's minds," Schutt couldn't help but get a little emotional recalling the incident. "I think of a lot of my friends, and parents who were probably homophobic when we were growing up. I remember one of my close friends' dad was really homophobic. And then when I came out, he flipped the coin and was like, suddenly so sweet, so great. And it didn't change at all with me. I thought that was beautiful because I was really afraid to tell him. So I think the conversations that stem from it were probably the more important things in the active activism of Cricket Australia. But, I love the fact that I felt super supported. I think it's what follows from that. That's important."

With the birth of her daughter, Rylee, in August 2021, everything changed for Schutt and her wife Jessica. It made her emotional. It made her free. "It has made me heck more emotional, which is great, which is something I didn't tap into enough but pre-Riley and that was probably on purpose. When it came to anger and those emotions that made me a good cricketer but I probably wasn't good at accepting the more emotional side of myself and having had Riley that has changed everything. Cricket is now taking a bit of a back seat and it's my job and how competitive I am will never change. It makes me feel a little bit more free with my cricket."

In yet another T20 World Cup campaign for Australia that started against Sri Lanka in Sharjah today, Schutt achieved a career milestone where she became the joint-highest wicket-taker in the history of the tournament alongside Shabnim Ismail of South Africa. The definition of success has changed but she keeps being the voice for those who need it. She keeps living by that tattoo. And by the looks of it, she will continue to do so. Brief scores: SL 93/7 in 20 ovs (Schutt 3/12) lost to Oz 94/4 in 14.2 ovs (Mooney 43 n.o).

Desperate India look to bounce back

After the big loss against New Zealand, Harmanpreet and Co will take on Pakistan in the afternoon while West Indies and Scotland search for first points. A look...

EYES ON TOP-ORDER

More often than not, when India win, it is because of their openers Shafali Verma and Smriti Mandhana. When they fail, it opens up all sorts of possibilities and that is not what Women in Blue would want against Pakistan. They will be challenged by Omaima Sohail and Fatima Sana, but it being a day game could be an advantage.

CAN PAK BREAK JINX?

While India vs Pakistan makes for television ads, some of them laced with jingoism, there hadn't been much contest between the two in the women's game. Pakistan have won only thrice in 15 T20I encounters but this time they have the momentum. They will have to build on it and bring out the A game to be able to beat India.

LOOKING TO OPEN ACCOUNT

If West Indies went down to South Africa badly, Scotland tried their best before falling short against Bangladesh. In the evening game, both teams will be looking for first points. And Scotland winning here could open up all kinds of possibilities in Group B, especially with the results from Saturday.

Harmanpreet & Co seek quick turnaround against Pakistan

FIELDING and fitness are of the highest priority," AmolMuzumdar said on the eve of his first-ever T20I series as a head coach of India. Almost ten months later at the ICC offices, on the eve of his first-ever World Cup match as a head coach of India, he repeated the same thing.

However, India's efforts in the first match against New Zealand were anything but of high priority. With multiple dropped catches, some fielding lapses, and a bizarre missed run-out chance later, India were dealt with a hefty blow right as the tournament started as they lost by 58 runs. One also needs to understand the fact that India did not get any match practice since their Asia Cup final loss against Sri Lanka in July till the practice match games in Dubai. While the camps and intra-squad matches are welcome, they cannot replicate the real match situations for the players. A long two-month break from competitive cricket did hurt the team especially in the conditions that take some amount of time to adjust to.

India's fielding once again came under the scanner on Friday | BCCI TWITTER

Competing in the so-called group of death, and a limited turnaround time, there is not a lot of wiggle room for the players or management to go through experiments at this level. With the question of who gets to bat at number three was finally answered on the match day, as promised, the result did not go the way India wanted. However, not everything is lost for the side. Their next fixture is against the high-flying Pakistan who defeated Sri Lanka to register an unlikely win to start their tournament, and would want to get a big win to make up for the net run-rate.

England defeat Bangladesh by 21 runs

England's four-pronged spin attack delivered a hard-fought 21-run victory over Bangladesh here on Saturday. On a slow track, England emerged victorious riding on a crucial 48-run opening stand between Maia Bouchier (23 off 18 balls) and seasoned Danni Wyatt-Hodge (41 off 40 balls) since run-making became increasingly difficult as the game progressed. Brief scores: England 118/7 in 20 ovs (Wyatt-Hodge 41; Nahida 2/32, Khatun 2/18) bt Bangladesh 97/7 in 20 ovs (Mostary 44; Smith 2/11).

India grapplers doubtful for Sr and U23 Worlds

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Chennai

PARTICIPATION of Indian wrestlers in the U23 and Senior World Championships scheduled in Tirana, Albania looks doubtful due to ongoing scuffle between the Wrestling Federation of India and government.

The WFI was scheduled to hold the selection trials to pick up the teams on October 6 and 7 in the national capital but the same has been cancelled now following an instruction from the High Court of Delhi.

The instruction came after an urgent application was moved by Satyawart Kadian, wrestler and husband of Rio Olympic bronze medallist Sakshi Malik. Through the urgent application, Kadian challenged the WFI's decision to hold trials taking in view the order issued by the court on August 16 on the petition filed by him and his wife Sakshi along with multiple Worlds medallists Vinesh Phogat and Bajrang Punia. These wrestlers have launched a protest against the former WFI president Brij Bhushan Sharan Singh accusing him of sexual harassment last year. It is learnt that the WFI is now conducting talent hunt on the same dates and at the same venue to select wrestlers for future competitions to be held under the aegis of the world governing body, United World Wrestling. "We will select the teams but the wrestlers will be sent only if the sports ministry revoke its suspension," a WFI source said.

The court in its August 16 order concluded that the dissolution of the ad-hoc body formed by the Indian Olympic Association to run the day-to-day affairs of the WFI was unwarranted and restored the mandate of the panel. The court also said that panel will continue till the order of suspension by the sports ministry dated December 24, 2023 is in force. It also have given liberty to the ministry to withdraw or review the order in question. "The matter has been going on for quite a long time. The UWW has made clear that it will not accept entries from anyone except WFI. So now unless the government revokes the suspension, the federation will not send the teams. It will be a big loss," added the source. In an Olympic year, the senior Worlds is held in the non-Olympic weight categories only. The senior event is from October 28 to 31 while the U23 competition is scheduled from October 21 to 27.

Sreejesh 2.0: Veteran set for fresh test as jr team coach

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Chennai

THE last match PR Sreejesh played for the country, he captured a bronze medal at the Olympics. He would love to leave the sport at that particular juncture — on a high to be precise. So much has been his propensity to coaching that he is not even figuring in the Hockey India League auction. He had been announced as the junior team coach just after he announced his retirement on the day of the bronze medal match in Paris.

"I'm joining tomorrow (Monday to be precise)," he said on the sidelines of an event organised by the Hindustan Institute of Technology and Science (HITS) on Saturday. He just can't wait. The U21 junior team is at the Bengaluru National Centre of Excellence under the supervision of two coaches.

Sreejesh has a plan. He has already requested the federation and Sports Authority of India for two more former players to assist him. He would be in the goal and he wants one in defence and one in the offence. SV Sunil as the attacker and Birendra Lakra in the defence. "Me in the goal and that will help the players," said Sreejesh. "Right now, the team is under two coaches Janardhana Chadlu Babu and Mohd Intekhab Alam." For Sreejesh, coaching is something that he had been aspiring for. He would have loved to coach younger hockey players because he believes that getting them trained from the grassroots would help them develop into better players rather than focussing on the players after reaching elite level. This he revealed during a panel discussion at the institute.

Hindustan Institute of Technology & Science pro chancellor Ashok G Verghese presents a cheque to PR Sreejesh during a function in Chennai on Saturday

As things stand, Sreejesh's assignment with the U21 team will be until the 2025 Junior world Cup to be held in India. "That's the short target," felt Sreejesh. "Ultimately, these boys are preparing for the LA 2028 and the 2032 Olympics. So when one prepares something for them, when I train them, I will see that their basics are stronger. The team is leaving for Johor Bahru in Malaysia after the 15th and after that in November end, we are going to Muscat for the Junior Asia Cup."

Liverpool overcome Crystal Palace to maintain top spot

AGENCIES @ London

LIVERPOOL, Arsenal and Manchester City bagged three points each in the Premier League on Saturday.

Diogo Jota's ninth-minute goal at Selhurst Park saw the Merseyside club beat Crystal Palace 1-0. In the process, Liverpool manager Arne Slot also earned a club record of nine wins from his first 10 games in charge.

Later, Manchester City edged Fulham 3-2 while Arsenal beat Southampton 3-1. A double strike from Mateo Kovacic proved to be the difference in City's victory.

For Arsenal, Bukayo Saka was the standout with two assists and a goal. Heading into the international break, Liverpool remain on top of the standings. They are a point above the other two teams (Manchester City are second because of more goals scored).

But it wasn't all good news for Slot after goalkeeper Alisson Becker sustained an injury and was substituted in the second half. The Brazil international hurt himself when clearing the ball in the second half and was forced to leave the field in the 79th minute.

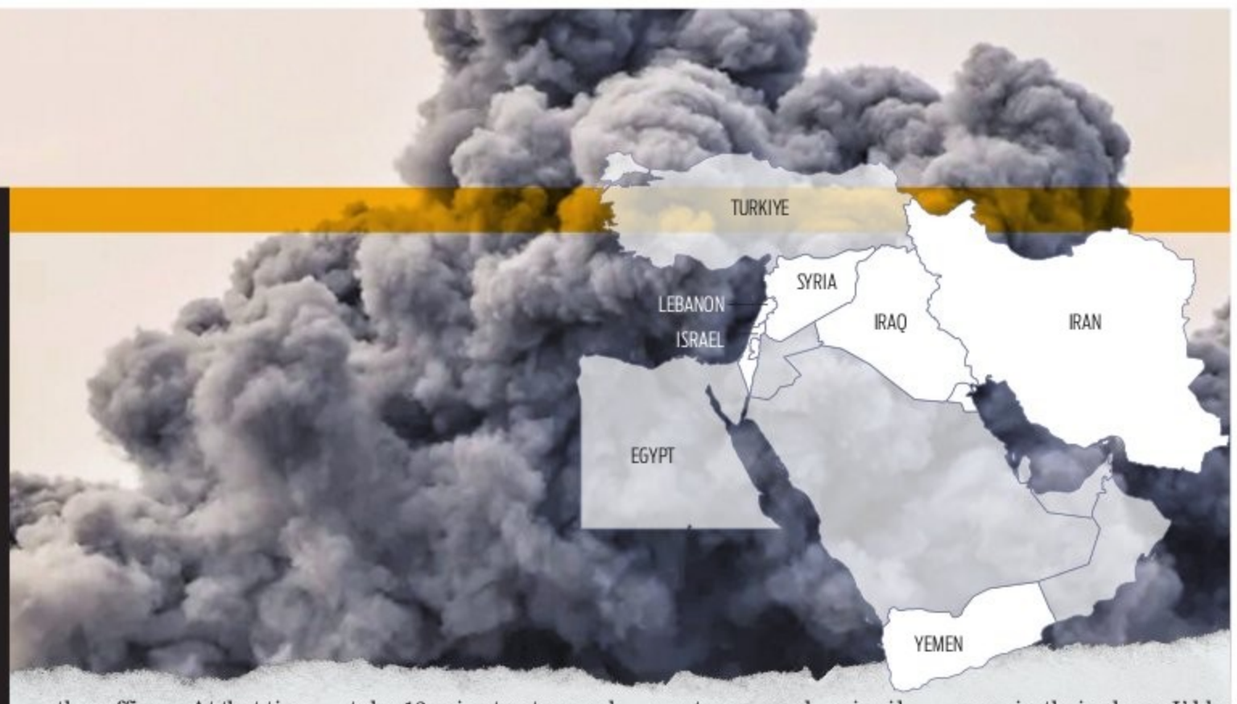
ballistic missiles, Israeli response imminent

ONE YEAR ON, WEST ASIA MORE DANGEROUS THAN EVER



T K VINEETH @ Kochi

WITH the first anniversary of the October 7 Hamas massacre just a day away, Israel has more or less decimated the Iran-backed militant outfit that carried out the brutal killing of over 1,200 Israelis last year. However, the year-long battle with the Palestine-based group has not only not ended, it has grown to become a much larger regional conflict with ramifications beyond West Asia.

Today, Israel is fighting a high-risk multi-front war with many of Iran's proxies. In Palestine, it has reduced much of Hamas-controlled Gaza into rubble – which the UN says will take 15 years to clear—and continues to fight what is left of Hamas in the enclave; its forces have set foot in Lebanon after a year-long air strikes on Hezbollah targets, which culminated in the assassination of the group's reclusive chief Hassan Nasrallah and other top leaders; in Yemen, a country that lies more than 2,000 km away, it has carried out multiple air attacks to destroy some of the ports and power stations controlled by the Houthis.

On the flip side, Israel continues to face major threats from its adversaries. Though the Sunni Islamic group Hamas has been fatally crippled, the Shiite outfits Hezbollah and Houthis are still managing to inflict damage, with the support of Iran. Last week, Israel said eight IDF soldiers were killed during a combat with Hezbollah in Lebanon. As for the Houthis, they have claimed to have hit several ships linked to Israel in the Red Sea. The Houthis also claimed to have hit Tel Aviv using drones and missiles.

In the midst of all this, Israel is now gearing up to open yet another front as it is planning to launch a direct and inarguably more dangerous battle with Iran itself. On October 1, Iran fired over 180 ballistic missiles at Israel in response to the assassination of its key allies -- Hamas leader Ismail Haniyeh in Tehran and Nasrallah in Beirut. There were no casualties in Israel as most of the missiles were intercepted or missed targets, but some military infrastructure was reportedly damaged. Iran also claimed its attack was just a fraction of its capability and it wouldn't hesitate to set off bigger strikes and inflict greater pain on Israel, should the latter retaliate against the missile salvo. Experts say it is not a question of if, but when and how Israel will strike back. The battle lines are drawn.

Why attack Israel

Iran was the second Muslim country after Turkey to recognise Israel as a sovereign state. The relations with Israel were friendly during the reign of the Pahlavi dynasty, which ruled Iran from 1925 until it was overthrown in the 1979 revolution. Mohammad Reza Shah Pahlavi, who was known for his pro-Western orientation, was superseded by the theocratic Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, who declared Iran as an Islamic republic. The current Supreme Leader, Seyyed Ali Hosseini Khamenei, hardened Iran's stance against Israel and issued several provocative statements, calling it a 'cancer tumour' that should be removed. In a sermon in 2009, he reportedly said that his regime would support any country or group that fights Israel.

Iran is known to fund and support several militias that are antithetical to Israel. By employing these proxy terror groups, it tries to push its agenda and influence across the region. This asymmetric warfare helps Tehran target powerful adversaries such as the US and Israel without directly involving its own military. By supporting Hamas, Hezbollah, Houthis, and various militias in Iraq and Syria, Iran maintains plausible deniability while still shaping regional dynamics to its advantage.

Iran refers to its network of allied non-state actors as the 'axis of resistance'. The policy to oppose Israel transcends even sectarian divides; despite being a Shiite regime, Iran supports Sunni groups like Hamas due to their shared ideology.

Tehran's preferred route is to provide financial and military muscle to its proxies and direct them to fight its enemies. It rarely gets directly involved in the fighting. Why, then, did it engage in a head-on duel with Israel, which is sure to escalate matters to the detriment of Iran?

This is not the first time Iran has launched missiles at Israel from its soil. In April this year, it had launched a relatively smaller attack by sending a swarm of slow drones and a few missiles, in retaliation for a suspected Israeli attack on its diplomatic mission in Syria that killed two Iranian generals and five other officers. At that time, Iran had given roughly three days notice before launching the attack, perhaps to minimise casualties but maximise optics. At that time, almost all of its 300-odd projectiles were knocked out of the sky by Israel and its allies.

In response to that attack, Israel launched a limited strike on Iran a week later. The attack damaged some military infrastructure located at the central province of Isfahan, which is home to a large airbase, a major missile production complex, and several nuclear facilities. Tehran said none was hurt in the attack and that it was leaving it there as it did not wish to escalate the conflict.

This time, however, Israel had a shorter lead time as it learned about the fast ballistic missiles just hours before Tehran launched them on October 1. Among the targets were the headquarters of Israeli intelligence agency Mossad in Tel Aviv and Nevatim and Tel Nof air bases. Of these, Nevatim is the largest Air Force base in Israel, which hosts F-35 fighter jet squadrons. This was also one of the primary targets of Iran's previous attack in April. While the Iranian media claimed some of the F-35s were destroyed, Israel is yet to react to it. Other reports said part of the airport was hit but the fighter jets were all airborne at the time, doing combat operations.

When Iran attacked Israel in April, ballistic missiles were calculated to take 12 minutes to reach Israel, cruise missiles two hours, and drones some nine hours to reach their targets. In the second direct attack on Israel from its soil, Iran claimed it used some advanced missiles, including the Fattah hypersonic missiles. According to Washington-based think tank Institute for the Study of War, the manner in which the missiles were deployed suggests Iran wanted to test Israel's defence capabilities. Knowing that the IDF only intercepts missiles that fall on populated areas, Iran directed a large number of missiles to a very small geographic area in the densely populated central Israel. "Iran likely intended to inflict significant damage on Israel by oversaturating Israeli air defences, particularly in central Israel," it said in an analysis.

Like in April when Iran launched its attack, the US, the UK and Jordan came to Israel's rescue this time as well to intercept missiles. But there is a question mark on whether they will support an offensive against Iran, which is certainly coming.

Possible scenarios

According to reports in Israeli and US media, Israel is contemplating a multi-pronged strategy to attack Iran. First, it will go after Iran's military installations, especially those producing ballistic missiles, and take out air defence systems and missile-launching facilities. Such an action may be deemed as proportionate as it reduces the risk of civilian casualties. However, there are calls for Israel to go all in and overwhelm Iran with multiple targets. Among them is former Israeli prime minister Naftali Bennett, who is eyeing another shot at power. "We have the justification. We have the tools," he said, calling for an immediate strike on Iran's nuclear infrastructure and energy facilities.

Israel could target Iran's oil rigs and refineries to crush the country's oil-dependent economy. Among the targets could be the Kharg Island, which hosts Iran's largest oil terminal that handles 90% of the country's oil exports. According to reports, The National Iranian Tanker Company has started pulling out Very Large Crude Carrier supertankers ahead of an imminent Israeli attack. An attack on the oil infrastructure is a risky proposition as it can have unforeseen consequences. A wounded Iran may target petroleum assets in Saudi Arabia and other countries in the region, triggering shortage in supply and increase in prices. Iran may also consider planting sea mines in the Strait of Hormuz, one of the busiest sea routes and the world's most important oil chokepoint.

US President Joe Biden is trying to wean Israel away from attacking Iran's oil infrastructure. "If I were in their shoes, I'd be thinking about other alternatives than striking oil fields," he said, adding "I think — I think that would be a little — anyway." He said the Israelis are not making a decision immediately, partially because of the high holidays.

Impact on India

The crisis could impact India as well, as the bulk of its oil purchase from West Asian countries pass through this region. India does not import Iranian oil due to US sanctions. China is Iran's largest crude oil buyer, estimated at over 1 million barrels per day. If Iran's refineries are blown up and pipelines destroyed, China is likely to turn to Russia and other sources for its energy needs, which may in turn put pressure on the supplies available for India. Apart from Russia, India buys large volumes of crude oil from Saudi Arabia, the UAE and Iraq.

To limit the impact on the global economy and its allies, Israel could consider the option of hitting only those refineries that serve Iran's domestic needs. In this scenario, the Persian Gulf Star plant in Bandar Abbas could be a likely target, as it is the most important domestic source of gasoline for Iran, which meets 40% of the country's needs. Such a surgical strike would also cause an economic upheaval for Iran, which is reeling under years of US and international sanctions.
